To Delay Action On Red China

OTTAWA (BUP)—Canada will almost certainly not recognize the Communist regime in China before the end of the this year, Prime Minister Louis St. Laurent said today.

He told the Commons de facto recognition would only be given when "certain conditions appear to exist." At present, sufficient information was not available about the situation in China, and it was unlikely the necessary facts would be known before the present session of Parliament ended, he said.

The Prime Minister made the statement in reply to a question from Opposition Leader George Drew, who asked that the House be allowed to debate recognition of Communist China before the government made any decision.

While he did not promise a debate, Mr. St. Laurent said he felt there was no point in discussing a hypothetical situation. More facts about the situation in China would have to be known before the government could make up its mind on the policy to be followed, he said.

Acting External Affairs Minister Brooke Claxton told the Commons that Commonwealth High Commissioners met in London recently to discuss the question, but no agreement had been reached.

German Nationalism Revival In Evidence

By THOMAS A. REEDY

BERLIN (AP)—Is the old spirit of German nationalism on the march again?

Western Allied officials in Berlin have been piling up a file of evidence that points that way.

The bugaboo of Communism may soon have to take a back seat. There's competition around, an American political authority commented today.

All four occupation powers — Britain, France, Russia and the United States—appear to be sensitive to the rebirth of the old Bismarck creed of "Germany for the Germans."

Recent examples of this are:

In London, member of Parliament Brig. Frank Medlicott said "Signs of the return of Nazism in Germany are increasing."

In Washington, Telford Taylor, chief U.S. war crimes counsel, asserted the Germans are trying to "soft-pedal" the war crimes trials behind a rising nationalism.

In Paris, the French have consistently resisted proposals to halt dismantling of German industry which they call war potential.

In Ottawa, Field Marshal Earl Wavell forecast that Germany would eventually become a greater problem for the west than the Soviet Union. He called the Germans the "most dangerous people in Europe."

A communique issued by the State Security Office said that a Hungarian engineer, Imre Geiger, managing director of the Standard Electric Company, a subsidiary of I.T.T., also had been arrested.

He was picked up crossing the border "illegally," the communique said.

Highway Proposal Advances

OTTAWA (CP)—Legislation authorizing the federal government to pay 50 per cent of the cost of completing a trans-Canada highway was advanced through preliminary stages in the Commons today after members had asked that correspondence dealing with the subject be tabled.

In opening debate Monday on the legislation, Reconstruction Minister Winters said that British Columbia, Manitoba and Nova Scotia had not yet authorized the tabling of correspondence exchanged with them. Mr. Winters was ill this morning and missed resumption of the debate.

Before the highways resolution was adopted and the bill based on it given first reading, George Drew, Progressive Conservative leader, said there were several points Mr. Winters should clear up when he returns.

When debate opens on second reading, he said, Mr. Winters should give what information he has on the route the highway may follow. He should say if there is any other financial arrangement other than the offer to pay 50 per cent of the costs. He should disclose whether the provinces will receive any credit for existing highways that can be fitted into the trans-Canada route.

One-Time Hockey Star Goes To Pen For 15-Year Term

SHERBROOKE, Que. (CP) — Tony Demers, one-time hockey star, today was sentenced to 15 years in the penitentiary on a charge of manslaughter in connection with the Sept. 16 death of his woman friend.

The 32-year-old hockey player —voted most gentlemanly player in the Quebec Senior Hockey League last year—did not bat an eye as Mr. Justice Cesaire Gervais pronounced sentence.

A King's Bench Court jury which tried the star of last year's Sherbrooke hockey team rejected a charge of murder in favor of the lesser count of manslaughter.

Demers' woman friend, Mrs. Anita Robert of Coaticook, Que., died in a Magog, Que., hospital Sept. 16 after a drinking party which began with Demers the previous day.

Mrs. Robert's husband is a chef in a Banff, Alta., hotel.

Demers at one time played in the National Hockey League with Montreal Canadiens and New York Rangers.

Judge Gervais said that in view of the fact that defence counsel as well as the jurors had asked for clemency, he would not impose the 25-year sentence he had in mind but would reduce it to 15 years.

Most Of Victims From Refugee Camp On Way To Holiday

OSLO (AP)—Police announced today they had recovered 26 bodies from the wreckage of a Dutch plane which had carried 28 Jewish refugee children and seven adults. The police said one child was known to have survived.

There was only the slimmest chance that there were any more survivors, the rescue parties reported.

The searchers found the twin-engined DC-3 transport after searching since Sunday through dense forests of southern Norway. It was lost en route from Tunis, North Africa, to Norway with the 28 under-nourished refugee children, three nurses and a crew of four.

The plane smashed into the forest, cutting a broad swath through the trees. The front part of the chartered Aero-Holland craft was badly damaged, but the rear section was said to have been almost intact. As rescue workers came upon it, some of them reported they could hear faint, feeble cries.

It was reported that the lone survivor was a 12-year-old boy.

Several bodies were found strewn about in the dense woods.

The plane was found near Filtvet, a small town on the west side of Oslo Fjord, about 30 miles from the Norwegian capital. The nearest house to the crash scene is almost two miles away, and apparently its occupants did not hear the explosion when the plane crashed.

Even though hopes were slim for any more survivors, squads of ambulance and rescue teams were sent to reinforce those at the scene, a hilly, heavily-forested place difficult to penetrate.

Survivor Taken To Hospital

The child who survived was taken to a hospital at Drammen, 20 miles from Oslo, police said. A doctor there was quoted as saying the boy has a good chance of recovery.

The boy, one of the pitiably underfed refugee children who had been on their way to rest and rehabilitation in Norway, speaks French, officials said, but it was impossible for the time being to persuade him to tell his name.

All the children had been destined eventually to go on to Israel.

At first there had been reports that nine persons had been found inside the plane.

Rival Peace Plans Of East And West Collide In U.N.

LAKE SUCCESS (CP)—The United Nations' Assembly returned today to committee debate on rival Soviet and British-U.S. proposals for peace after deciding overwhelmingly to make a sovereign country of Libya.

The rival peace plans, now before the political committee, go to the core of East-West disagreement in the United Nations. They have produced heated debate and are expected to continue to do so until the Assembly finally disposes of the issue.

Involved is a Soviet request for a non-aggression pact among the five major powers—Britain, the United States, France, Russia and China; and the British American counter-proposal reaffirming the binding nature of the peace pledges contained in the U.N. charter.

The settlement of Libya's future came Monday in an Assembly plenary session at Flushing Meadow. It was part of a larger decision disposing of Italy's pre-war African colonies.

Libya, the largest of those colonies, will become independent not later than 1952 under the binding decision left to the U.N. under terms of the Italian peace treaty.

The Assembly also decided to send Italians back to Africa as trustees for 10 years over Italian Somaliland and to set up a U.N. commission to decide within a year what to do with Eritrea.

How Many Protests On Rent Control?

OTTAWA (CP) — Stanley Knowles (C.C.F.-Winnipeg North Centre), set out today to find out how many persons, organizations and governments have protested to the federal government about the recently-announced increases in rental ceilings.

Britain To Stand By U.S. In Protest On Held Envoy

LONDON (UP)—A British official said today that Britain "will obviously stand by the United States" in its campaign for the liberation of Angus Ward, U.S. Consul-General imprisoned by the Communists at Mukden.

The official said the mistreatment of the U.S. consular envoys at Mukden "will undoubtedly make the question of recognition of the Communist regime in China more difficult."

His assertion indicated Britain would not recognize Communist China without the agreement of the United States.

Diplomatic quarters said Britain probably would put off recognizing the Communist regime until Ward and his fellow envoys were freed.

They said Britain was consulting the United States and Commonwealth countries on the question of recognition.

British recognition of the Communist regime, once considered imminent, is not expected now until after the Commonwealth Foreign Ministers' conference in Ceylon in January.

But if Ward and members of his staff still are held by the Communists at that time, an announcement of the Commonwealth decision very likely will be held up until they are released, it was said.

U.S. Coal Strike Deadline Nears; No Mediation Move

By UNITED PRESS

The deadline for a threatened new soft coal strike in the U.S. was only nine days away today, but nobody was taking any action to head it off.

Soft coal operators worked their mines full blast in an attempt to get every possible ounce of coal above ground before Dec. 1, when John L. Lewis has threatened to call the United Mine Workers out of the pits once more.

At Kokomo, Ind., 1,200 members of two C.I.O. Steel Workers' Unions, locals voted to remain on strike against the Continental Steel Corp. until the firm agrees to settle on the basis of the "Bethlehem agreement" which set the pattern in the rest of the industry.

The company has offered a flat $100 monthly pension and to pay two cents per man per hour toward an insurance program. The union insists pensions should start at $100 and be graduated upward on seniority and age. It also wants the firm to contribute 2½ cents for insurance.

Large Contracts To Reduce B.C. House Building Costs

Plan Calls For Blocks Of Homes At Low Rentals

Premier Byron Johnson announced this afternoon that the provincial government, subject to the approval of the Legislature, would enter into an agreement with the federal government to embark on a construction program to relieve the housing shortage in British Columbia.

Under the scheme it is envisioned that large blocks of houses will be built and offered for rental or purchase.

Mr. Johnson said conferences would be held shortly with municipal authorities so that the basis on which municipalities can participate may be determined and the necessary legislation for the provincial Legislature thereby facilitated.

British Columbia thus becomes the first province to express its willingness to participate in the housing program presently before the House of Commons. The legislation provides for the federal and provincial governments to join in the assembling of land and construction of houses for sale and for rent under arrangements by which the cost, profit and loss would be shared on the basis of 75 per-cent federally and 25 per-cent provincially.

Recognizing the municipal responsibility to solve the housing shortage, Mr. Johnson said he would forthwith call four distinct conferences as follows:

1. With civic authorities of Vancouver.
2. Civil and municipal authorities of New Westminster and Fraser Valley.
3. Greater Victoria and Island communities.
4. Representatives of all other municipalities and cities throughout the province.

Before Cabinet Today

The plan for federal-provincial housing in British Columbia was the fruit of Mr. Johnson's visit last week to Ottawa, during which he conferred with Reconstruction Minister Robert Winters. Mr. Johnson placed the proposed plan before the provincial cabinet this morning.

Mr. Johnson said he had arranged through Mr. Winters for federal representatives to be present at the conferences with the municipal authorities. These federal representatives will include David Mansur, president of the Central Mortgage and Housing Corporation. The federal government's corporation will be placed at the disposal of the Dominion and the province in carrying out the joint housing projects.

Although the federal legislation is still before the Parliament, no major changes are anticipated. In view of this, Mr. Johnson said he deemed it advisable to confer with the municipalities with the aim of determining the extent of their participation so that there would be no delay in presenting legislation to the provincial House next February. This, he indicated, would accelerate the whole program of house construction.

"Under the scheme it is envisioned that large blocks of houses will be built at the lowest cost obtainable under the system of granting large contracts," said the Premier's formal statement. "Those desirous of securing houses therefore will benefit from the lowest construction costs both as to rental or purchase under the National Housing Scheme."

Has Data On Shortages

Mr. Johnson said he had been advised that the Central Mortgage and Housing Corporation had factual data by which to determine the needs of the various communities.

"The organization constantly has kept closely in contact with the shortages existing not only in various parts of British Columbia but throughout Canada," he said.

"I cannot say how grateful I am that the Hon. Mr. Winters has seen fit to introduce legislation to the House of Commons which makes it possible for the province to join the federal authorities on so generous a scheme and on a basis which undoubtedly in the course of the next few years will minimize the shortage of homes," he continued.

Apart from the federal-provincial-municipal scheme, the federal housing legislation, said Mr. Johnson in many other ways facilitates the construction of homes. He mentioned specifically the provision to lower the down payments which an individual will have to make in order to build a home for himself under the National Housing Scheme.

U.S. Consul Put On Trial At Mukden By Chinese Reds

WASHINGTON (UP) — The State Department today reported Chinese Communist announcement that U.S. Consul-General Angus Ward has been put on trial at Mukden and that a verdict will be announced within a few days.

Ward and four members of his consulate staff were arrested Oct 24 on what this country regards as trumped up charges of beating a Chinese worker.

Communist newspapers in both Shanghai and Nanking reported that Ward's trial before a "people's court" is now in progress.

One report said the court had given "many hearings" to the case. It said two Chinese witnesses and the alleged victim of the assault had testified.

"As the investigation has been concluded," one report said, "the court will give final hearing to the case in a matter of days and the verdict will be announced."

Abbott Proposes Tariff Revision

NEW YORK (BUP)—Finance Minister Douglas Abbott of Canada called today for a readjustment of tariffs and customs to enable Canada to sell more goods to the United States and help world trade generally.

In a speech before the Bond Club of New York, he said Canada has a large trade surplus with the sterling area and Western Europe and a large trade deficit with the United States.

"Unless our customers overseas can pay us, we cannot pay you," he said. "We in Canada must facilitate the efforts of our overseas customers to earn more from us and at the same time we must try to sell more to the United States. In this way we can bring our own trading position into better balance."

Mr. Abbott said Canada has had "considerable success" in this policy, but that "more needs to be done in reducing our trade deficit with you."

"We shall endeavor to do it by increasing our exports, rather than by restricting imports," he said. "We need your help and co-operation. We can supply the goods at competitive prices, but often we find that your tariffs and customs administration make it difficult and impossible for our goods to flow into your markets.

BRIGHT, NEW ERA

Of his own country, Mr. Abbott said Canada's economy now is "more secure than ever before" and that the Dominion may be entering a "new era of economic growth because of the recent discovery of vast supplies of important raw materials."

Mr. Justice R. L. Kellock, in his findings of the federal commission inquiry into the disaster, tabled in the House of Commons Monday, ruled loss of life was due to failure of the company and Capt. William Taylor, the ship's captain, to follow out basic fire precaution measures.

Canadian Industry Slower Than U.S. In Using Atom

By NORMAN M. MACLEOD

OTTAWA (BUP) — Canadian industry is definitely slower than United States industry in adopting atomic energy to practical purposes, Dean C. J. Mackenzie of the National Research Council told the atomic Energy committee of the House of Commons today.

He said that in the United States there already was a "huge" output of atomic energy products, whereas in Canada even the distribution of radioactive isotopes, which were available to any industry, was on a relatively modest scale.

Furthermore, large projects aimed at the production on atomic energy power plants, were being carried on in the United States, he said. The most important was the project of the General Electric Company aiming a development at a power plant for naval vessels.

There was no similar project under way in Canada, Dr. Mackenzie said.

He told the committee Canada would have to spend $40,000,000 annually on atomic energy development if she wished to parallel United States actvity on a per capita basis. Actually, Canada was spending only between $5,000,000 and $6,000,000, he said.

The Prime Minister made the statement in reply to a question from Opposition Leader George Drew, who asked that the House be allowed to debate recognition of Communist China before the government made any decision.

LAKE SUCCESS (CP)—The United Nations' Assembly returned today to committee debate on rival Soviet and British-U.S. proposals for peace after deciding overwhelmingly to make a sovereign country of Libya.

The rival peace plans, now before the political committee, go to the core of East-West disagreement in the United Nations. They have produced heated debate and are expected to continue to do so until the Assembly finally disposes of the issue.

Involved is a Soviet request for a non-aggression pact among the five major powers—Britain, the United States, France, Russia and China; and the British American counter-proposal reaffirming the binding nature of the peace pledges contained in the U.N. charter.

The settlement of Libya's future came Monday in an Assembly plenary session at Flushing Meadow. It was part of a larger decision disposing of Italy's pre-war African colonies.

Libya, the largest of those colonies, will become independent not later than 1952 under the binding decision left to the U.N. under terms of the Italian peace treaty.

The Assembly also decided to send Italians back to Africa as trustees for 10 years over Italian Somaliland and to set up a U.N. commission to decide within a year what to do with Eritrea.

One Woman's Day

By NANCY HODGES

A BYNG ECHO

THE MANY VICTORIANS who met Lady Byng on the occasion of her visits here in the mid '20's as the wife of the then Governor-General of Canada and, later, during the war years, when she sojourned as a private citizen at the Oak Bay Beach Hotel, will doubtless be interested to learn that her will was published in London, England, last month.

And, under its terms, Thorpe Hall, the lovely old home of the late Viscount Byng of Vimy and Lady Byng at Thorpe-le Soken, Essex, together with the residue of an estate of [illegible] a quarter of a million pounds in trust, has been left [illegible] Eva Sanford.

WELL-KNOWN HERE

MISS SANFORD is also well-known to many Canadians, having come from England 22 years ago to act as lady-in-waiting during Viscount Byng's regime at Rideau Hall, Ottawa. In that capacity, she accompanied Their Excellencies to Victoria on their official tours.

Thorpe Hall has 200 acres of park and farmland, and among its gardens is one spot which, as Lady Byng herself once described it to me, "is forever Canada." For in it she planted the hundreds of native plants and wildflowers which she had gathered in all parts of the Dominion.

And I well recall how some of the young aides-de-camp of that day used to dread Her Excellency's excursions into the bush—she would have the vice-regal train stopped at the most out-of-the-way places—to gather the sometimes almost inaccessible plants, often to the detriment of their immaculate garb!

LIKE A DAUGHTER

ACCORDING to a London newspaper, Miss Sanford traced the growth of her devotion to the Byngs from the time she came out to Canada as a lady-in-waiting—when she "didn't dream that everything would end like this."

On their return to England in 1926, Lord Byng asked her to stay on and help him with his papers and correspondence. They had no children of their own and, she goes on, "I became very devoted to them and they gradually treated me like a daughter.

"When Lord Byng died in 1935 I stayed on as a kind of secretary-companion to Lady Byng. Thorpe Hall was left to me by Lord Byng in his will, on the death of Lady Byng, but until the will was published I never really knew the position."

POSES A PROBLEM

WHILE TO MOST people such a huge windfall would seem like manna from heaven, to Miss Sanford it is posing something of a headache as well as a heartache to know what to do about Thorpe Hall.

Despite the legacy of approximately £250,000 in trust, the estate and other duties payable to the government will whittle it down by about two-thirds, it is estimated.

And the upkeep of a place like the Byng estate is enormous. It means keeping on the butler and chauffeur, as well as a staff sufficient to look after 20 bedrooms and numerous reception rooms, plus eight gardeners to tend some of the finest gardens in England.

STATELY HOMES PASSING

THAT IS WHY the erstwhile lady-in-waiting is wistfully wondering whether she "will be able to keep this lovely old house or whether to take a little flat somewhere. If I cannot keep Thorpe Hall, here is a beautiful home for someone else."

Because of the close association of its former owners with Canada, this latest development in the history of one of the stately homes of England will have more than a passing interest for Victorians. At the same time it reminds us again how the inexorable march of time—and circumstance—is causing the old order in Britain to change, yielding place to new.

Civic Election Campaign On; Lively 15 Days Anticipated

Opening guns in the civic election campaign have been fired and when the smoke has cleared away Victoria voters will have had a lively 15 days.

Election day is two weeks from Thursday and candidates are lining up meetings and advertising material for votes.

Start of the campaign was marked Monday when two candidates for mayor of the city—the present chief magistrate who has been in office five years, Percy George, and an alderman of two years, Aubrey Kent—addressed the Gyro Club at the Empress Hotel.

Ald. Kent indicated he intends to make the city manager question a main issue in his campaign for votes even though his views on the plan differ only slightly from those of Mayor George.

The alderman gave a fighting speech in which he charged that Mayor George had failed to show leadership in any plan to improve the city's administration.

The mayor spoke first and was not given a rebuttal period. It is expected, though, he will answer the charge.

Reports of the two speeches follow:

Manager-Director Schemes Explained By Mayor George

Main purpose of his address, Mayor George said, was to attempt to clarify the city manager-director of administration controversy.

He said he leaned toward the appointment of an administrator because of the security of tenure of office it afforded over the city manager plan.

He did not like the stigma that was attached to the title of city manager, either.

In the U.S. where the term "city manager" was born, the plan was only brought into effect when civic administrations were found to be corrupt, Mayor George said.

"The situation is different in the great republic to the south of us where there are political set-ups within civic administrations," the mayor added.

SAME PLAN

However, the city manager plan as laid out in a petition calling for a vote of the people was practically the same as an administrator plan City Council had worked out as a result of the Stevenson and Kellogg Report.

There was one main difference. Under the administrator plan the director would not have the power to hire and fire department heads.

ADMINISTRATOR

The administrator would be appointed under the Municipal Act. The council could do away with the position on its own, but action of this kind was unlikely. The administrator would have security of office in that he could be dismissed only for incompetency — not because someone on the City Council took a dislike to him.

MANAGER

The municipal or city manager would be appointed under the Municipal Manager Act. The office could not be abolished without a vote of the people. But the manager could be fired on 30 days' notice.

The Junior Chamber of Commerce which had circulated a petition forcing council to present a city manager by-law to the voters was doing a service to the city, Mayor George said.

He made it clear that in his opinion the city had to have a manager or an administrator.

"It's a must," he declared, reminding that in all of his inaugural addresses he had called for a sharper line of demarcation in City Council between policy making and administration.

Kent Says Council 'Pussyfooting' On City Manager Issue

"I contend a good many of the council members including the mayor are pussyfooting on the city manager question," said Ald. Kent.

He charged that through lack of leadership in City Council the mayor and alderman had to be pushed into taking the question to the voters for decision.

He thought the manager plan had become popular among the people so the council men now were "getting on the bandwagon."

Mayor George was dead against a city manager for Victoria at one time but had changed his stand, the alderman claimed.

Three aldermen who had voted in council against the manager plan had signed a public petition forcing council to place it before the electors.

"That's the sort of thing you're up against," the alderman despaired. "You don't know where you stand on any platform."

SAW NEED

He said the need for a manager at the city hall was recognized by him only a few months after he was elected to office. As a result of study he recommended at the beginning of this year that a city manager or administrator be employed — a "boss man" with complete authority over the City Hall and staff, answerable only to City Council.

He asked at the time—on Jan. 3—that a committee be struck to investigate his plan. "But nothing has been said from that time to this."

A screening committee plan of the mayor's to improve conditions was not successful, the alderman continued.

"The next thing we heard was that the finance committee, of which the mayor is an active member, was going to make a recommendation," he said.

ADVISER PLAN

Three months later a finance committee plan of employing a city adviser was suggested but when public opinion "frowned" it was dropped.

Ald. Kent said that if it had not been for Ald. Skillings and himself the city would have an adviser now who was not suited for the job.

Then plan to call in the Stevenson and Kellogg business engineers for a report was adopted.

The report was a good one, Ald. Kent said. It was what he had sought at the beginning of the year.

But the council was taking the credit for getting the report and this "is far from the truth."

Ald. Kent said the people were confused on the city manager question because the council was confusing them.

Geese Shipped By Plane To England

DELTA, Man. (CP)—A half dozen Ross' geese—a breed of birds once thought doomed to extinction—have just been shipped by plane to Britain, Dr. Albert Hochbaum, director of the Delta Waterfowl Station, said Monday.

Dr. Hochbaum, attached to the United States Wildlife Service, said the geese had been sent to Lt.-Cmdr. Peter Scott, a noted ornithologist and son of a renowned Antarctic explorer.

The geese sent to Britain were from a group of nine caught by Scott last spring in the Arctic regions.

Dr. Hochbaum said the three other geese will be kept at the station here for further observation. He added it might be five or six years before the geese will breed.

"It had been thought these geese were becoming extinct," he said. "They're by no means plentiful, but apparently there are more of them than we had thought."

Found Guilty Of Retaining Bull

Frederick J. Smith, 38-year-old chimney sweeper, was found guilty by an Assize Court jury Monday of retaining a bull calf stolen from Joel J. Pendray, Swan Lake dairy farmer.

The jury, however, acquitted Smith of stealing the calf, which was taken from Pendray's barn on the night of Oct. 8.

Smith claimed at the trial that he drove two companions out to collect the bull calf from the farm, after the pair told him they had won it in a poker game.

In his address to the jury, Mr. Justice Coady said if they thought Smith did not know the calf was stolen they could not convict him.

New Method Eliminates Corrosion Of Ships' Hulls

HALIFAX (CP)—The Defence Research Board told today for the first time of a method which eliminates underwater corrosion of ships' hulls.

Corrosion has been a major maintenance problem ever since steel hulls came into use. Water and steel combine in an electro-chemical reaction and the hull gradually dissolves.

This is how the new scheme works:

Bars of magnesium are bolted to the hull in several places. When magnesium, steel hull and salt water come together, an electric current is generated. This current travels around the hull, preventing corrosion.

ALL-CANADIAN

The new system of protection—in this application—is an all-Canadian project. However, magnesium had been used for 20 years to protect underground pipelines. D.R.B. says its experiments are "75 per cent completed."

Zinc bars now are widely used rather than magnesium. However, they soon lose effectiveness because a coating forms on the metal, halting the current flow. One navy frigate, equipped with zinc plates, had to have 1,200 rivets renewed after a year in the water.

Early trials on a magnesium-protected minesweeper showed no corrosion after 15 months and this period later was extended considerably.

The amount of magnesium varies with the amount of paint used. The better the paint film, the less metal is required, but magnesium—in sufficient quantities to enable more current—can do the job alone.

Officials of the research establishment said at a press conference today the method would "reduce" immeasurably" the cost of keeping vessels afloat.

The method was perfected through the combined efforts of K. N. Barnard of Saskatoon, head of the corrosion section of the establishment; Dr. G. L. Christie, also of Saskatoon, a member of the establishment; Dr. J. H. Greenblatt, Moncton, N.B., paint expert, and Dr. J. R. Dingle of Halifax.

Dissidents Fight Philippine Force

MANILA (AP)—Constabulary headquarters reported tonight a big battle was raging between Communist-led Hukbalahaps and constabulary forces in Batangas Province, 60 miles south of here.

About 300 dissidents, using trench mortars and machine guns, engaged two constabulary companies, the report said.

There was no immediate report on casualties.

Brig.-Gen. Alberto Ramos, chief of the constabulary, said he would leave for the battle scene early tomorrow.

The Hukbalahaps (People's Alliance Army Against Japan) were organized as left-wing guarrillas against the Japanese during their occupation of the islands. In Central Luzon they have been pitted against the landlords and the rural constabulary since the end of the war.

President Elpidio Quirino, who was re-elected Nov. 8, tried when he became President to persuade the Huks to surrender their arms. A very few did, but most of them took to the hills and continued to clash with the constabulary.

Only a few hours before the outbreak of the battle, constabulary headquarters asked for 8,000 recruits for possible use against elements grumbling over the election

Eskimo Faces Trial

EDMONTON (CP)—The manslaughter trial of Scurvy Shorty, an Eskimo, will open tomorrow before a stipendiary magistrate at Dawson City, Y.T., it was learned here today. The charge was laid against the native of Yootalinqua River, Yukon, after a man named George Joe had died following a fight at Carmacks, Yukon.

Salaries Increased

OTTAWA (CP)—The collegiate institute board here and its advisory vocational committee Monday night approved an increase of $200 annually in the maximum salaries of the city's 220 secondary school teachers. The increase, to become effective Jan. 1, 1950, will bring the maximum salary to $4,400. The teachers have labeled the proposed change "unsatisfactory."

Two Children Bound; Parents Not Charged

VANCOUVER (BUP) — City police apparently have decided not to lay charges against the parents of three children, two of whom were found tied to a bed in a Vancouver house last week-end.

The tots, a two-year-old boy, and his sisters age three and five, were found by a policewoman.

The two girls were tied to the bed with a rope, while the boy was free to toddle about their lightless small room.

Police quoted the parents as saying they had barricaded their three youngsters in the room "to keep them out of mischief."

Police said the family was in financial difficulty, and asked the Children's Aid Society to have the children placed in another home. Police said the father was an unemployed hospital orderly.

Law Journal's Claim Margaret Might Be Throne Heir Denied

LONDON (AP)—The British Law Journal says today that Princess Elizabeth is not the sole heir to the throne.

According to law, the journal states, Princess Margaret might have just as good a claim in court.

The journal suggests they might even have to be enthroned as co-queens upon the death of the King.

"It seems to be commonly considered that on the death of His Majesty the King without male issue the crown would unquestionably descend to the Princess Elizabeth," says the provocative article in the journal.

"However, a survey of English constitutional history reveals that there is no precedent to cover such a situation, and that what commentary exists is of doubtful value."

Nonsense, a Buckingham Palace spokesman told reporters.

The spokesman said the issue was settled in 1937, when Elizabeth was 10 and Margaret seven. The law offices of the crown looked into the matter, he told newspapermen, and gave a formal opinion that Elizabeth would have sole claim to be queen.

But the Law Journal article points out that the title to the crown stems from the Royal Act of Settlement in 1701.

Under that act, it says, claims to the crown are limited to the Princess Sophia "and the heirs of her body."

It commented that these "are, of course, the precise words appropriate to the creation of an entail"—a legal device to insure that possessions stay in the family of the person who owns them.

Such words, the journal says, "would appear to carry with them the usual incidents of an entail as to inheritance, including co-parcenery among females."

SOMETIMES SHARED

"Co-parcenary" is joint ownership of an estate. In England, elder male heirs, especially of a noble line, receive the family title and lands. If there are only female heirs, the lands are shared.

"Co-parcenary would clearly on all counts be a most unsatisfactory and inconvenient tenure in respect to the crown," the journal says.

"And although there is perhaps no practical possibility of the situation being allowed to arise, yet . . . the mere inconvenience of a particular state of law does not of itself effect an alteration in the law."

The journal suggests that all doubts should be removed by passing a law in Parliament. The article says "it is difficult to understand" why this was not done when the question came up in 1937.

Name Maxwell Bray To Be Adjudicator

LONDON (CP) — Maxwell Bray, prominent British theatrical man, will act as regional adjudicator for the 1950 Dominion drama festival, the Brtish council announced today.

The council nominated Bray following a request from D.D.F. authorities that it arrange for regional and final adjudicators for the festival.

Bray will leave for British Columbia early in the new year and will tour Canada for 10 weeks, judging some hundred plays and selecting finalists for the festival which is to be held in Calgary.

Bray began his career as an actor in the famed Old Vic Theatre and since has been stage manager, director and producer of many west end plays, musicals and pantomimes.

Reach All-Time High In B.C. In November

Family Allowance payments in British Columbia reached an all-time high during November, officials of the National Health and Welfare department said here today.

A total of $1,756,939 was paid out on behalf of 293,706 children in 153,604 families they added.

This is an average allowance of $5.98 per child.

"If family allowance figures can be taken as a gauge, the population of British Columbia continued to mount during November," said W. R. Bone, regional director of the family allowance division.

Every province sent families to B.C. with the exception of New Brunswick, which came out even by sending three here and receiving three from here.

Injured By Puck

Playing for the Hotelmen in the Commercial Hockey League, defencemen R. K. Jensen, 1228 Oscar Street, was taken to Jubilee Hospital early today suffering from an injured knee. He was struck by a puck in the game with B.O.P. Jensen contributed to his team's 8 to 7 victory by scoring a goal. When taken to hospital the player could not walk.

Canadian Highway Legislation Makes Advance In House

OTTAWA (CP)—Legislation authorizing the federal government to pay 50 per cent of the cost of completing a trans-Canada highway was advanced through preliminary stages in the Commons today after members had asked that correspondence dealing with the subject be tabled.

The legislation consisted of a resolution and a bill. The resolution was adopted and the bill was introduced and read a first time. The bill disclosed that the federal government plans to limit expenditures on the highway to $150,000,000.

In opening debate Monday on the legislation, Reconstruction Minister Winters said that British Columbia, Manitoba and Nova Scotia had not yet authorized the tabling of correspondence exchanged with them. Mr. Winters was ill this morning and missed resumption of the debate.

Before the highways resolution was adopted and the bill based on it given first reading, George Drew, Progressive Conservative leader, said there were several points Mr. Winters should clear up when he returns.

When debate opens on second reading, he said, Mr. Winters should give what information he has on the route the highway may follow. He should say if there is any other financial arrangement other than the offer to pay 50 per cent of the costs. He should disclose whether the provinces will receive any credit for existing highways that can be fitted into the trans-Canada route.

How Many Protests On Rent Control?

OTTAWA (CP) — Stanley Knowles (C.C.F.-Winnipeg North Centre), set out today to find out how many persons, organizations and governments have protested to the federal government about the recently-announced increases in rental ceilings.

He asks Finance Minister Abbott, in a series of questions placed on the Commons order paper, how many "letters, telegrams, memoranda, resolutions and other communications" have been received from organizations, individuals, provincial governments and municipal councils and for the identities of the senders.

Different There

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—"In our country a woman isn't considered a woman until she can attract a man with her clothes on." Italian actress Marina Berti startled studio publicity photographers with this statement Monday as she obligingly posed for the customary cheesecake art in a silk slip. Miss Berti is here for a major role in the film "Deported."

Armed Forces Decrease

LONDON (Reuter)—Britain's armed forces decreased 23,900 during three months to a total of 746,000 as of Oct. 1, the defence ministry announced Monday night.

Britain To Stand By U.S. In Protest On Held Envoy

LONDON (UP)—A British official said today that Britain "will obviously stand by the United States" in its campaign for the liberation of Angus Ward, U.S. Consul-General imprisoned by the Communists at Mukden.

The official said the mistreatment of the U.S. consular envoys at Mukden "will undoubtedly make the question of recognition of the Communist regime in China more difficult."

His assertion indicated Britain would not recognize Communist China without the agreement of the United States.

Diplomatic quarters said Britain probably would put off recognizing the Communist regime until Ward and his fellow envoys were freed.

They said Britain was consulting the United States and Commonwealth countries on the question of recognition.

British recognition of the Communist regime, once considered imminent, is not expected now until after the Commonwealth Foreign Ministers' conference in Ceylon in January.

But if Ward and members of his staff still are held by the Communists at that time, an announcement of the Commonwealth decision very likely will be held up until they are released, it was said.

London Suspect Resembles Flynn

LONDON (AP) — Scotland Yard sent out word today to arrest a robbery suspect who "resembles Errol Flynn."

Newsmen quickly called the Hollywood star, who is making a movie here.

"I ain't done nothing," Flynn said. "The only thing I ever stole was an apple and that was 20 years ago."

The wanted man is about 25, five feet nine, with "darkish, mousy hair" Flynn said he's 39, six feet two and has brown hair.

Told that Scotland Yard also described the man as good-looking, Flynn commented: "That's something, anyway."

Plane Turned Over

SEATTLE (CP) — Canadian pilot David R. Unger of Leamington, Ont., escaped injury Monday when his light plane overturned during an attempted take-off from a farm pasture near here.

He had been forced to land in the pasture Saturday when he became lost in fog flying from Toronto to Vancouver. Necessary repairs will delay Unger's departure several days.

MILITARY VISITOR

FIELD MARSHAL VISCOUNT MONTgomery, arriving in New York yesterday, offered as proof that there is no prospect of an immediate outbreak of hostilities in Europe the fact that he is visiting this side of the Atlantic instead of staying on the other. While there is no real thought in most minds that a shooting war is imminent, it was perhaps to be expected that the New York reporters would refer to the question, for the famous wartime British leader is now military chairman of the Western European Union defence alliance. As such he is the focal point for defence preparations by the western democracies in so far as they concern the European theatre, and since his selection for the post some months ago he has been busy formulating plans to meet all contingencies.

While on this side of the ocean, Monty has announced that he will "talk defence with anyone who will listen." Since his visits during his 12-day stay in the United States will include talks with Gen. Eisenhower, Gen. Omar Bradley, chairman of the U.S. Joint Chiefs of Staff; Gen. Joseph Collins, Army Chief of Staff, and other leading men in the military and diplomatic fields, it may be taken for granted that his suggested topic will be thoroughly mulled over.

As on previous occasions, too, it is highly likely that the outstanding personality of the British Field Marshal will do much to provide a closer link between the people of the United States and Britain. Some question of professional prowess has arisen from time to time between certain American generals and Montgomery; critics, not always highly qualified, have expressed doubts as to the tactics he pursued following the Normandy landings. But the fact remains that Monty's career has been one of success throughout. His victories in North African desert warfare and in Europe were masterpieces of careful advance preparation and design—and he never once had his defences broken by the enemy. It will be on this note that most of the American public will greet Montgomery.

The Spartan-like figure can do a great deal in the role of an ambassador of good will. He has a firm grasp of Britain's present difficulties. Only recently he told a London audience of Alamein veterans that "we have temporarily forgotten how to pull together and how to fight our way out of our difficulties." And he added, "We seem unable to arrive at a satisfactory practical application of a good day's work for a good day's pay." But he called on them to "keep the old desert spirit" and thereby surmount all difficulties. It was no idle chance that he should pick on that great chapter in Britain's history as the basis for a rallying call. It was, moreover, advice that might well be heeded on both sides of the Atlantic.

CALLED WRONG SIGNALS

AMERICAN FOOTBALL CIRCLES HAVE been stirred—to amusement rather than resentment—by the claims of a Soviet newspaper that college sports in the United States "are in the service of American reactionaries" who aim to militarize the youth of the country. There may be many things wrong with college sports today—professionalism, football scholarships and other features have been widely criticized—but surely the last thing in the minds of any of the coaches (except possibly those at West Point or Annapolis) is to train their lines or backfields in the military tradition. Perhaps the value of the Soviet allegation may be measured in the accuracy of two other observations made in the article under review.

It was charged that negroes are not permitted to compete in sports in "white" universities, a situation which no doubt unfortunately holds true in some cases. It was not in the best interests of the Russian writer's argument, however, that Yale University should have been mentioned by name—for the captain of the Yale squad happens to be Mr. Levi Jackson, a negro. Again, in singling out Columbia University as a stronghold of football training, the Soviet paper unconsciously heaped embarrassment on the Columbia coach, for his team has won only two out of seven contests this season. But such mistakes are apt to occur when facts in one country are twisted into propaganda for consumption in another.

TRAGIC LESSON

THE PAINFUL AND SERIOUS ACCIdent caused by the premature explosion of a home-made bomb in the hands of a Victoria youth last week has ended fatally. A combination of factors set in motion by the blast has taken the boy's life. Every sympathy will be extended to the parents of the victim. But that cannot blunt the impact of the tragedy which has occurred.

The incident may, however, furnish a warning to others and discourage their practice of hazardous hobbies that continually pose the danger of critical injury. It is natural, of course, for youth to conduct experiments the results of which cannot be known beforehand. The inquiring mind that is the basis for mental growth in the young should not be stifled. But there are occasions when the judgment of seniors should be applied to avert risks which the inexperienced inevitably run. Men skilled in science, for instance, know that certain mixtures under certain conditions will explode. In the chemistry labs of high schools and colleges they are careful to warn students of such dangers. Even so, the more venturesome occasionally proceed with the manufacture of certain concoctions which blow up. Fortunately such occurrences are rare.

A tragic lesson has been taught by the mishap last week. From it scant solace may be taken by those directly concerned. But it will serve some purpose, however negative, if it brings home to others experimentally-inclined the necessary appreciation of the destructive potency of certain chemicals.

FOR BETTER SERVICE

THE ANNOUNCEMENT THAT AN efficiency survey is to be made of the provincial civil service, in an effort to eradicate duplication, waste, excess manpower and unnecessary expense where these may be found to occur, will find few objectors among the general public. The Motor License Branch will be the first department to be studied by a firm of management engineers—the same, incidentally, which recently made a survey of Victoria City Hall affairs—and this work, to quote Premier Byron Johnson, will "in all probability" be followed by similar assessments of operations in other departments.

It will be evident to even casual observers that many units in the provincial service have expanded rapidly during the past few years. New office organizations have been established—the sales tax and hospital insurance staffs are examples—with little opportunity to plan how the work could be streamlined to effect savings. Now a point has arrived where such a survey is both necessary and feasible. There is no criticism of department heads and staffs implied in the move; any large business organization—and British Columbia operates on a $90,000,000 annual budget—finds periodic stock-taking of methods and personnel expedient. Where improvements need not be made, we may feel gratified that we are receiving efficient service; where they are recommended we may look for considerable savings to be effected. House-cleaning may not always be pleasant, but the final result is usually worthwhile.

THOUGHT FOR FOOD

A TRUISM AS VALID TODAY AS WHEN it was coined—that people on this continent are prone to dig their own graves with their knives and forks—is brought to mind by a current release of "Health News," a Canadian publication issued in the interests of this country's physical welfare. The item states that medical authorities ascribe overweight almost invariably to overeating, and it notes that overweight enters very definitely into the current picture of heart conditions, high blood pressure, diabetes and other ailments.

The situation arising from inadequately disciplined adult appetites is, of course, one for which the mature mind should be able to find a corrective. But, as the Health League of Canada points out, the attitude to diet of parents and elders is also a determining factor in establishing among the young a preference for certain types of food. The adult, with the wisdom that comes from painful past experience, will eschew the child's inclination to consume unlimited quantities of "peanuts, popcorn and pink lemonade" or the equivalent of that mixture. On the other hand, the young one is not in a position to challenge the merit of the adult's choice of food.

Parents' likes and dislikes, the Bulletin notes, frequently influence the likes and dislikes of children because the latter are great imitators. Moreover, parental preferences are almost certain to determine the home menu. Under these circumstances, our people might well consider a little self-denial in the matter of rich, sweet foods, cakes, pastries and candies, and turn to more wholesome fare. Example could be a highly effective means of developing a healthier diet than is usual in some households.

IN TUNE OR TUNED IN?

TWO UNITED STATES SOCIOLOGISTS who have been making a study of Hutterite colonies in Manitoba report that the members of this strictly ruled Protestant religious sect enjoy a "remarkable mental health," and are "almost free from neuroses and psychoses." In describing the life of the people in their somewhat isolated communities, the experts observe that they have contact with world affairs through newspapers, but shun all use of the radio. While most of us might think that their close adherence to stern rules of deportment, dress, religious observance and work might be conducive to an unbalanced outlook on life, this apparently is not the case. The sociologists suggest that their complete lack of fears regarding economic security may have something to do with the Hutterites' mental health, but we suggest another factor mentioned may have something to do with it.

In this world, which so obviously is producing more and more neurotic and psychotic persons, the constant clamor of radios day and night has become a potent part of our environment. Might it not be that the Hutterites are mentally healthy because they do not listen to the radio? Or, on the other hand, do they refrain from listening to the radio because they are mentally healthy? Evidently we must await a further visit to Manitoba to clarify the point.

Matter Of Fact

By JOSEPH and STEWART ALSOP
From Washington

CROWN PRINCE MALENKOV

CERTAIN SIGNS and portents have sent the experts in foreign offices all over the world scurrying for their intelligence files on a squat, plump man with heavy, saturnine features. This is Georgi M. Malenkov, who now seems the most likely successor to Josef Stalin as director of the vast Soviet empire.

The most cogent evidence of Malenkov's new ascendancy was the fact that he was chosen to deliver the Nov. 7 speech commemorating the Russian revolution. Since the war, A. A. Zhdanov and V. M. Molotov have been chosen to perform this task, when their stars seemed brightest.

ZHDANOV'S STAR has been eclipsed by death. Molotov's star is by no means eclipsed—none of the experts count him out of the running. But there are signs that it has been waning. And—another portent—Malenkov has replaced Molotov in the place of honor next the dictator in the most recent official portrait of the Politburo.

Stalin will be 70 years old on Dec. 21, which is one reason why the speculation on his successor grows increasingly intense. But depite some heart trouble, Stalin still looks strong, and Molotov is approaching his 60th birthday. Thus the course of nature also suggests that Malenkov, who is only 47, whether or not he now actually outranks Molotov in the Kremlin's hierarchy, is the most likely ultimate inheritor of the vast powers of the aging dictator.

AT ANY RATE, Malenkov is now one of the half dozen or so key figures in the world, and it is time to inquire what manner of man he is. The answer is inconclusive, as always where the Kremlin is concerned. But the intelligence files suggest that he is, as much as one man can be a copy of another, a carbon of Josef Stalin himself. Malenkov got his start to power in the twenties when he served as Stalin's private secretary, and since that time he has consistently aped the dictator's manner and his dress, including the short, military-looking jacket and the simple cap.

Moreover, like Stalin, Malenkov is no theoretician or intellectual. He is an operator, a manoeuverer, and again like Stalin, he has derived his power from the authority to assign all Communists to their jobs. According to intelligence reports (and also to the testimony of Igor Gouzenko at the Canadian spy trials) this power is not limited to the Soviet Union. Malenkov has been in charge of the foreign section of the Communist central committee. Foreign Communists summoned to Moscow regularly visit him, and second only to Stalin he is considered the supreme director of the world Communist apparatus.

MALENKOV'S rapid rise began in the thirties, during the great purge, in which he played a conspicuous role, and which left plenty of room at the top. The turning points in his career were marked by two speeches. One of these in February, 1941, marked his rise to real power. The other, in February, 1946, was followed by a two-year eclipse.

In the first, he attacked devastatingly the whole system of Soviet industry and transport, for shameful inefficiency, as well as for "unculturedness and filthiness." This was the prelude to a major purge in Soviet industry (of which Molotov's wife is reported to have been one of the victims) and to Malenkov's becoming an alternate and later a full member of the Politburo.

IN THE SECOND speech, Malenkov sneered at over-orthodox Marxists, "people who have quotations from Marx and Lenin ready for every occasion and every pretext." This speech was followed by Zhdanov's ruthless drive for strict ideological orthodoxy, and in turn by Malenkov's removal as secretary of the Communist central committee and a two-year stretch of obscurity. Malenkov's rebirth coincided with Zhdanov's death in August 1948, and with Marshal Tito's defiance of the Kremlin. Malenkov is believed to have opposed Zhdanov's plans for disciplining Tito.

Yet there is no evidence whatsoever to suggest that Malenkov is a "moderate" opposed to the "extremism" of Zhdanov. His difference with Zhdanov concerned not ends but means. Like Stalin himself Malenkov is interested simply in power—"It is no secret that even our friends respect us because we are strong," Malenkov has said repeatedly—and in the Marxist ideology chiefly as an instrument of power.

IN THIS SENSE again, Malenkov thinks like Stalin. And he is believed to have climbed back to become Stalin's first favorite, not because he favored moderation but because of his greater militance in advocating the building of Soviet military strength and the extension of Soviet power.

The fact is that there are no "moderates" in the Kremlin. It is still possible that when the great dictator dies, a fierce internal struggle for power will ensue, and it is just conceivable that this struggle will shift the basic direction of Soviet policy. But it is a great deal more likely that, whether Stalin's power is inherited by Malenkov or Molotov or another, the bitter contest which has gripped the world will continue, not for years, but for generations.

As Our Readers See It

WHERE WE CAME IN

I wish your correspondent, L. J. Pepper, could be a little more tolerant. One gets rather tired of his continued sneers at any expression of religious opinion. From his numerous letters I judge that he believes that science has the last word. I, of course, concede that he has a perfect right to hold and express this belief. If it contents him, well and good, and I am quite willing to agree that science is a very wonderful thing.

But I, and countless others, believe that there is a transcendental Power (which we call God) and that science is merely discovering the secrets of this Power. But the moment any one of us expresses this belief Mr. Pepper rushes into print to brand it as superstition.

But this is most unscientific; for you cannot make a cult of science. Some of the most eminent of the world's scientists have confessed that there is something above and beyond their discoveries which they could not explain or comprehend. One might speculate that their work had given them a glimpse of the infinite, but at any rate they were honest enough to admit that the human mind, with all its latent power, is in the last analysis finite.

I have little doubt that Mr. Pepper will deal with this letter in his characteristic manner, but it is not my intention to weary your readers by entering into a newspaper controversy with him.

I would only plead with him, and indeed, with his opponents, for a little more tolerance, for the issues involved are so vast and, in this atomic age, so fearful, that the use of sneers and gibes in discussing these tremendous questions seems to me to be cheap and petty.

Editor's Note: In view of the fact that religious controversies in the press end up with nothing solved, the above letter must be considered as the final one in this regard. Correspondence on matters of practical public interest is always welcome. Again, however, the shorter the letter and the more pungent in construction, the greater the chance of its publication.

RACIAL GROUPING

In your issue of Nov. 18, page 23, is a news item from Crow Creek, Ont., about the Japs who have been allowed to settle in an exclusive colony and purchase property on the installment plan and form a village exclusively for Japanese.

I would have thought that by now, with their experience in B.C. with the Japs before the war, and with the Doukobors since, that the government would not allow these or any other different sects to congregate in a colony of their own.

Make them spread out among native Canadians and others and thus become Canadianized and assimilated into our Canadian way of living, amendable to our Canadian laws and customs.

TROUBLE MAKERS?

It is safe to assume that 999 people out of 1,000, not only don't want war, but hate the very thought of it, more particularly in those countries that have been ravaged by war.

Yet to read many of our newspapers, and look at the miserable cartoons foisted on us, one is justified in suspecting that a malicious trouble-making spirit is at work.

To most of us, to brand a man as a Communist and criminal because he believes that uncontrolled capitalism is against the best interests of his country, seems just as foolish as to condemn a man as a spy and criminal because he believes that the dictatorship of the Proletariat is against the best interests of his country. That is not our conception of Democracy.

Communists sit in the British Parliament, and can rant and rave to their hearts' content in Hyde Park or elsewhere, and can bark their heads off unhindered, on the principle that barking dogs don't bite. An object lesson to all jitterbugs.

Canada as an independent nation, the central link in the Great Commonwealth of Nations, can well afford to ignore the sabre-rattling of panicky propagandists, and set an example of co-operation for mutual benefit to all, refusing to be the stooge of any foreign ideologists.

Would you be so good as to publish this letter in order that parents who are in the habit of putting their babies in buggies in their own front yards, in the delusion that they are safe from molestation, may be advised that such is not the case.

On Saturday, my wife heard our baby start to scream and on rushing outside, found her face to be covered with blood, while a small girl stood alongside the buggy. Questioned as to what had happened, the girl said "I beat her" and she spoke the truth. Our baby has no less than 16 cuts on her face, mostly about the eyes.

The child departed and returned a short time later accompanied by a lady, we assume it was her mother, who expressed regrets and suggested to the child that she do likewise.

As this child was not punished at the scene of the incident, it is very probably that she will repeat this performance. Parents in the James Bay area take warning.

Greek Children Have No Toys

By SCOTT MORTON, N.A.N.A., from New York

TO MANY a Greek child, and especially to the many who are in tubercular hospitals, the ultimate luxury is a pencil. The child lucky enough to have one keeps it under his pillow and when it is almost gone he makes a little holder for it so that he can use the last tiny fragment of lead.

NO TOYS

They have no toys and they probably expect none.

Miss Elise Lavelle, a member of the board of directors of Friends of Greece, Inc., who recently returned from Greece, said that she saw no toys and no decorations. In some hospital rooms she saw twists of colored paper pinned on the walls for the youthful patients to look at.

"The Greek child of nine has never known anything but war and misery and terror," Miss Lavelle said.

In Greece two months to investigate conditions there, she was told that the Italian and German occupations "were not a patch" on what the Communist war had done to the country.

Thousands of families were driven from their homes by the guerrilla warfare, and although it is now over, and the government is victorious, many families are still displaced.

PRINCIPAL PURPOSE

When the Friends of Greece was founded in 1941, its principal purpose was to help the country's children. But in consequence of the Communist war, which uprooted so many households, the organization has had to extend its aid to adults as well.

Miss Lavelle told of some of the cases she looked into. In Athens, in response to a letter asking for help, she visited a family of four living in one room—but it was a neat, clean room. The 75-year-old head of the family was a baker and they had been driven out of their home in Macedonia. He had a small pension for his service in World War I and they had got along fairly well while their son had a job. But the son had just been drafted into the Greek army—at $3 a month. This is one of the families that is being helped.

WORST SCOURGE

An American doctor told Miss Lavelle that the worst scourge in Greece was tuberculosis because it spreads through the family group, especially since so many families live in crowded, unsanitary conditions.

GLOBAL SURVEY

By DeWITT MACKENZIE
Associated Press News Analyst

It's seven years ago, barring a few days, that North America's distinguished British guest, Field Marshal Viscount Alexander, gave me the toughest chase I ever experienced in rounding up a subject for an interview—not that he was trying to avoid me, but it just happened that way.

This was in the Libyan desert in December of 1942, just before the crucial battle of El Agheila between Monty's Eighth Army and the Germans under the famous Marshal Rommel. The British general was moving his headquarters for the great showdown, and he personally was hopping from place to place so fast that the British press unit to which I was attached never could catch up with him.

FIND HIM

Finally my colleagues threw up their hands, gave me an armored car with a military driver and said: "Go find Monty yourself!" A couple of days later we finally ran to earth the man whom Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower, supreme Allied commander, had described as "one of the greatest soldiers of the war . . . a figure who will live always, not only in British but in world history."

The general was in his caravan—a little "headquarters" office-on-wheels which could be got under way in a few moments. When I knocked he gave me a cheery "Come in—I'm glad to see you," and grinned when I told him about my long chase.

The first moment of an interview with a stranger often is the most important, for it is in this brief instant that the interviewer sizes up his subject. I find that in my notes of the interview I recorded this first impression:

CRUSADER'S FLAME

"There burns in his grey eyes the unmistakable flame of the crusader. If he were not a great general he would be in some other field of leadership and it would involve idealism, if I've sized up my man rightly."

There would seem to be nothing in subsequent developments to change that viewpoint. Associated with that thought is the fact that he is intensely religious, and in a manner of speaking fought with the Bible in his hand. His own battle cry was: "Let God arise, let His enemies be scattered." He told me of messages he was receiving from all over the world and said:

"I was particularly touched by one letter from a Sunday school teacher in Atlantic City. He wrote to say that the boys of his classes were praying that I might have strength in the coming battle."

"And don't these messages help you?" I asked. "Don't they strengthen your morale?"

He nodded, and there was moisture in his eyes.

He would find in our present discontents a nation that seems to be throwing both out the window, and with a sort of gay abandon, too. My Three Years In Moscow

By Lieut.-Gen. Walter Bedell Smith

Structure Of Control Threatened By Struggle To Unseat Marshal Tito

Installment No. 15

Viewed from the American Embassy in Moscow, the Cominform struggle to unseat Marshal Tito of Yugoslavia created visible, ever-widening political and economic repercussions throughout Eastern Europe and, indeed, among inquiring minds susceptible to Communist influence all over the world.

It breached the Iron Curtain and violated the principle of Kremlin omnipotence. The wall the Soviets have erected around their part of the world can be visualized as a dyke holding in check the churning torrents of the pent-up emotions of Eastern Europeans, who may know little of real democracy at home but who historically have resisted every kind of foreign rule. This breach, like any leak through which angry waters find an outlet, threatens to grow larger with every passing day and, if unmended, eventually to destroy the entire structure of control and to inundate the surrounding area.

The men in the Kremlin have stated it, just this bluntly and without equivocation: the first loyalty of Communists everywhere is to the Soviet Union; their devotion to their own countries and their peculiar national interests must be secondary, Moscow said, in terms impossible to misunderstand, that it expects every Communist party of every nation to obey without question the dictates of the Communist party of the Soviet Union (Bolshevik) and that, if and when one of them comes to power, it must apply in its own country the exact system of regimentation and collectivization now in effect in the Soviet Union.

Tito said "no," and the Kremlin said he must recant or be overthrown.

That was 18 months ago, as this is written, and neither has happened. Tito is still in power, and on the basis of available evidence, probably politically stronger than when the fight began.

Time Is On Their Side

Since Moscow is the political, economic, military and psychological headquarters for world revolution, it quite naturally was one of the primary tasks of the Ambassador and his staff to keep in closest possible touch with every phase of international Communism, both before and after the "Cominform" openly took the place of the "Comintern," which had been disbanded in 1943 as a sop to the public opinion of the Western Allied world in the middle of the war against Hitler. We followed, therefore, with increasing interest, the step-by-step development of the Tito controversy.

Just as they have never put a time limit on achievement of the world domination by Communists, which they consider inevitable, the Soviets likewise have never established any time schedule for eliminating the heretical Yugoslav marshal. They believe, quite obviously, that time is on their side, but this may not necessarily be so.

It would not be wise to make any prediction at this stage as to whether Tito eventually will win or lose, recant or lose his job, if not his head, but I believe it would not be without value to total the particular advantages thus far accruing to the West from Tito's continued successful defiance of the Kremlin.

Major Gains Listed

On the basis of my experience in Moscow, I would list these major gains:

Any totalitarian system lives to a large degree on the myth that its leaders are infallible. As long as Tito lives, unrepentant and still in power, he is a negation of this principle.

The Communist drive directed from Moscow has been stripped naked of any internationalist pretense and exposed to the world as nothing more nor less than "Great Russianism." The theories of Marx and Engels, who were most interested in how to make a revolutionary state, have been revised to fit Russian organizational concepts, which are a modernization of the age-old czarist practices of despotic power and absolute control.

Because nothing is more contagious than independence in a totalitarian state, the so-far successful Tito revolt already has shaken the structure of the Communist party in Poland, Hungary, Albania and "Free" Greece by the admission of the Communists themselves. There is every reason to think it may have been behind less-publicized party troubles and purges in Bulgaria, Rumania and Czechoslovakia.

Differences in the Balkans

In the Balkans, the Cominform-Tito split created differences among the major leaders of the Greek guerrillas, and when control was handed to anti-Tito forces, Yugoslavia ceased its once-considerable aid to the Greek rebels and made easier the American-supported task of crushing the Communist army in northern Greece. Albania, as an anti-Tito Soviet satellite, is now sparated from any friendly neighbors and shaken by an internal political crisis, brought on in part by the fact that most of its trade since the war had been with Yugoslavia or routed through Yugoslavia. The Communist-supported plan for a South Balkan Federation, upon which Yugoslavia and Bulgaria had agreed, was dropped when Bulgaria aligned herself against Tito. And, without Soviet support, Yugoslavia has had to reduce her pressure on the Free Territory of Trieste, which her troops jointly occupy with American and British forces—an area ardently desired in full by both Italy and Yugoslavia.

GEN. GEORGE C. MARSHALL

Internationally, the controversy furnishes further evidence of the mendacity of the Soviet claim that it respects treaties and the sovereignty of small nations. By its own words in a series of angry notes to Yugoslavia, the Soviet government has made it clear beyond a shadow of a doubt that it is in fact interfering directly in the international affairs and national sovereignty of Yugoslavia in complete violation of the United Nations Charter.

Inside Yugoslavia, it has strengthened Tito among middle-class groups previously opposed to the regime, who by their Balkan heritage and even their enlightened self-interest are more anti-Russian than anti-Tito.

Inside the U.S.A., it certainly has caused at least a small decline in the enthusiasm and support of "fellow-travelers" who found it difficult to regard Tito as an international Communist hero one day and an enemy the next.

In Soviet Image

Since the establishment of trained Soviet puppets in power in the satellite states, we have witnessed a gradual process of remaking them in the image of the abject Soviet constituent republics.

I am satisfied that there never was the slightest intention on the part of Stalin and the Politburo to allow any other pattern to develop in the satellite area or to honor—at any point or in any way—the many agreements they had made with the British and the U.S. to allow the people of Eastern Europe freely to choose their own form of government and to decide on their own futures. The Kremlin, from the very beginning, was determined to prevent us from having any role or any influence in Eastern Europe and, by preventing us from assisting the reconstruction of Western Europe, eventually to open the entire European continent for further Russian expansion and exploitation.

History does not record another instance where a program of aggressive expansion has attained its objectives with such rapidity. In less than three years of peace, the Soviet Union, by political infiltration and suppression, over-ran a great deal more territory than the Red Army had conquered during the entire war.

Meanwhile, the Western powers, whose people generally were reluctant to admit, even in the face of overwhelming evidence, that their hopes for a united world were being completely shattered, passed through a period of indecision and hesitation.

"Democracies," General Marshall used to say, " are slow starters, but when they do move they act with great force and resolution."

When it finally was apparent to the people of America that the Soviet Union and the Western democracies had widely divergent peace aims, and that the lofty agreements entered into so hopefully during the war were being given almost diametrically opposite interpretations, they reacted positively and effectively.

The Truman Doctrine, specifically promising aid to Greece and Turkey but in principle holding out the prospect of aid to any country resisting Soviet aggression, came in March, 1947, and was followed a few months later by the Marshall Plan for European economic recovery.

Stroke of Sheer Genius

A very wise and experienced Western European statesman and diplomat said to me at this time: "The Marshall proposals were a stroke of sheer genius, and if coupled with a judicious political fusion of the Anglo-French-American zones of occupation in Western Germany, can provide an impact against present Russian strength and bring about Russian withdrawal to the East, short of war."

The first conference in Paris provided the final test of Soviet intentions. When the French Ambassador told me at the end of June that he had issued visas for Molotov and a group of sixty-odd economic experts to attend the Conference on European Economic Reconstruction at Paris, I wondered for a moment, despite all I had learned in the Soviet capital, whether it was possible that there would be a new co-operative shift in the Kremlin's tactics, even though in the preceding two years there had not been a single statement by any Soviet leader expressing interest in any common effort to restore European economic well-being.

World in Two Camps

But when Molotov walked out of the Paris conference, refusing to co-operate with the plan, and when the Kremlin forced the withdrawal of Czechoslovakia, which had announced her acceptance, and of Poland, which wanted to join the program, we knew that there would be no change, that the world was indeed divided, by Soviet decision, into two camps.

It is possible that the Politburo hesitated for a time to make this decision. Mr. Bevin told me that during the first two days at Paris, Molotov's attitude had seemed to him encouraging. During the third day's session, however, while Mr. Molotov was speaking, one of his aides handed him a telegram. He interrupted his remarks to read it and said nothing more during the remainder of the day's meeting. On the following day he denounced the plan. His final instructions evidently had been contained in this telegram.

I frequently glanced at the translations of the political columns in Soviet children's magazines. They were interesting and amusing, because they gave the raw propaganda line in words of one syllable, unseasoned by Communist dialectic. Here is how the Marshall Plan was described for the children of the Soviet Union:

"ZOYA DAVIDOVA, MANSOUR KAYUMOV, MUKHAMET LETFULLIN AND OTHER CHILDREN ASK: 'WHAT IS THE MARSHALL PLAN?' DR. OF ECONOMIC SCIENCE E. VISHNEV ANSWERS THEM.

"Marshall is the Secretary of State of the United States of America (in this country he is called Minister of Foreign Affairs). Last summer Marshall made a speech in which he declared that in European countries there prevails at present economic chaos and that the United States are ready to help these lands restore their economies. Marshall proposed to the European lands first of all to consult among themselves how they could help one another. 'Just let these countries,' said Marshall, 'calculate what resources they have themselves and what are their needs. Then America will decide how it can help them.' The American papers immediately raised a great noise about this plan. In different terms, they emphasized 'the magnanimity' of America which had decided to help war-stricken Europe.

Subjection of Europe

"However, actually, this cunning plan pursued entirely different aims. The American capitalists want to use the help of the Marshall Plan to overwhelm Europe and bring it into subjection to themselves. The government of the Soviet Union at once recognized the real meaning of the Marshall Plan and definitely refused to take part in setting it up. So also did the governments of the other democratic lands—Poland, Czechoslovakia, Bulgaria, Yugoslavia, Rumania, Hungary and also Finland. But 16 European states adopted the Marshall Plan against the wishes of their peoples.

"Let us see now how the U.S.A. is preparing to carry out the Marshall Plan and what it promises the European countries which have fallen for the American bait.

"Representatives of these 16 European states met together and calculated that they had to receive from the U.S.A. 29 billion dollars to restore their economies. The Americans answered that this sum was too high and asked for its reduction to 20-22 billion dollars.

"The Americans, moreover, attached the following condition: they themselves must dictate to each European country what branch of economy it must develop and what it must curtail. For example, they say to Britain: 'You Britishers, build fewer ships for yourselves; you will buy ships from us in America.' They propose to the French a reduction in the production of automobiles—American factories can make automobiles for France.

Useful for Capitalists

"It goes without saying that this was very useful for American capitalists. In America everybody is fearfully awaiting 'the economic crisis,' i.e., the time when many factories and industries suddenly close and millions of people are left without work. At that time it will be difficult for the manufacturers to get rid of their output. A man out of work has nothing with which to buy. So the American capitalists are greatly concerned how to sell profitably their output in Europe. Further, the European countries inevitably will become dependant on America; once they make a few machines, tools and automobiles, it means that willy-nilly they must defer to the Americans.

"According to the Marshall Plan, the American capitalists want to restore all the great factories of Western Germany. In other countries, they are hastening to close many factories, while in Germany, on the contrary, they are opening them up. Their purpose there, too, is quite understandable: clearly, the U.S.A. considers Western Germany as its colony. By controlling the big industries there which can also make armaments, it will be easy for the Americans to frighten the European countries dependent on them.

"The American capitalists counted on using the Marshall Plan to stir up trouble between the peoples of the democratic countries and the Soviet Union. The Americans proposed to these countries as follows: 'We will give you dollars if only you abandon your friendship with the Soviet Union. But if you don't, we won't give you anything.' But the peoples of these countries did not fall for the American capitalists' trick. They answered the Americans; 'We will not exchange our freedom and independence for dollars.'

Ask for Rights

"In America and the capitalist European countries people make a great fuss about the Marshall Plan, but to date the Americans haev not given anyone a single dollar of the sum indicated in the plan . . . and meanwhile America is asking that the European countries grant her the right of building on their territory and in their colonies harbors for American naval vessels and aerodromes for American planes.

"Belgium has a colony, the Congo, in Africa. Rich deposits of uranium ore exist there. This ore is needed for the production of atom bombs. In the French colony of Caledonia are deposits of nickel. Nickel is a metal which is very important for the making of armaments. The Americans are demanding that Belgium and France hand over the uranium ore and nickel to America.

"But this isn't all. The American capitalists have still another

MARSHAL TITO
. . . he said "No."

dastardly aim. After using the Marshall Plan to reduce the European countries, they want to unite them in a military alliance for a future war against the democratic states. The Marshall Plan is highly profitable to the United States. For the European countries it brings only poverty. Any land which wants to receive 'aid' by means of this plan will be entirely dependent on America. Its economy will not be assisted: on the contrary, it will fall into greater ruin, because the country will have to close many of its industries and plants and hundreds of thousands of people will be out of work. That is why both in America itself and in all other lands progressive people are opposing the Marshall Plan with all their strength."

Car Badly Wrecked But 5 In It Unhurt

In a Colwood accident Monday night, in which a car was badly damaged when it left the road and turned over, the five occupants were lucky to escape unhurt, provincial policeman Constable Fred Clunk reported.

Driver was Victor J. Montgomery, 935 Selkirk Avenue. Other occupants were Mrs. Montgomery, Mrs. J. R. Brown, 935 Selkirk Avenue, and Frank Mattin. The Vancouver car, which had the roof battered down to within eight inches of the top of the front seat, is owned by Clayton L. Rubin of Vancouver, Const. Clunk said.

Four School Trustees To Seek Re-election; Six Vacancies

Four members of the Greater Victoria School Board whose two-year terms of office expire at the end of the year will stand for re-election in December.

They are board chairman R. H. Green and Trustee Arnold Trevett, Victoria representatives; Trustee Walter Jeune, Saanich, and Trustee J. A. de Bourcier, Oak Bay.

Two one-year terms on the board are to be filled at the elections also. They were caused through the death of Miss Isla Tuck, Victoria representative, and the resignation of M. P. (Pat) Paine, Saanich representative.

A contest is assured for the Victoria one-year term. E. H. Carey, tea and coffee merchant at 716 View Street for the past 27 years, confirmed today he will seek the seat. Mrs. D. P. W. Maunsell, former president of the Sir James Douglas P.T.A., said earlier she will ask to be elected to the office.

No candidate has been named yet for the Saanich vacancy although it is understood O. B. Taylor, 2811 Tudor Road, drug store manager, is considering standing for election.

BUILDING PROGRAM

In announcing at a board meeting Monday night that he will ask to be returned to office, Mr. Green said he was interested in seeing the school building program advanced. He has served eight years on the board.

Mr. Trevett said he would "stick with the ship" in view of many important projects the board had planned and a heavy amount of work the board will be faced with next year.

"I'd like to see it through," said Mr. Trevett, chairman of the board's music committee and a member of the finance and education committees.

Both Mr. Trevett and Mr. Green felt that with six trustees being elected, some of the experienced board members should stand for office.

Trustees Planning Classes For Tots Saanich, Esquimalt

Saanich and Esquimalt schools will be provided with pre-primary classrooms next year it was indicated at a meeting of the Greater Victoria School Board Monday night.

The board referred to next year's estimates committee a letter from the Parent-Teacher Council asking that a pre-primary classroom be set up at Quadra School to serve the northern area.

Trustee Walter Jeune, Saanich representative, reminded that his municipality and Esquimalt had no such classrooms. The city and Oak Bay had.

J. F. K. English, inspector, said the opening of the S. J. Willis junior high school in the Topaz district would make classroom space available at both Quadra and Cloverdale Schools.

He thought Cloverdale should be given priority over Quadra in the setting up of pre-primary classes because it was in Saanich.

He said also that Esquimalt should be provided with pre-primary classrooms.

Board members agreed.

LEIGHTON BUSZARD, Bedfordshire (CP)—G. Aris has 14 sons and relatives who play in local bands. They have 347 years' playing experience among them.

High Students Watch Trustees In Action

"Home work" for seven high school students Monday night was to listen to the Greater Victoria School Board's monthly deliberations.

The students were Owen Irwin, Brian Bassett, Sylvia Welsh and Janice Bacon, Victoria High; Lawrence Bolter and Maureen Brownley, Oak Bay High, and Arthur Cornish, Mt. Douglas High.

They will take over the school board offices on Future Citizens' Day Dec. 2 while fellow students will act in other important municipal and business posts.

They attended the November meeting of the board to familiarize themselves with its workings.

School Burglaries Increase; Police Patrols Requested

Police of the Greater Victoria municipalities will be asked to patrol school grounds nightly in an effort to halt an outbreak of burglaries.

Request is going from the Greater Victoria School Board which on Monday night considered closing the school grounds after dark to the public.

It was reported that three schools, the new Fairey Technical Unit at Victoria High School, Central Junior High and Oaklands were broken into last week, Mt. View High School was entered recently also.

Trustee Walter Jeune, chairman of the education committee, said considerable damage was being done to school buildings. Twenty-five windows were broken at one school one night recently, he stated.

"It's time something was done to guard against this sort of thing," the trustees said.

He claimed police patrols of schools in the city a few years ago were effective.

Hebden Takes Over As President Of Victoria Liberals

G. A. A. Hebden took over the presidency of the Victoria Liberal Association Monday night from D. J. Proudfoot, who has been elected to the provincial legislature.

Mr. Hebden was elected by acclamation.

In a battle for the first vice-presidency Ronald Worley beat Donald K. Smyth by 12 votes on the second ballot. Earl Briggs' name had been dropped following the first ballot.

Mrs. Linda Smith was elected second vice-president by acclamation.

Mrs. Blair Reid was re-elected treasurer, defeating John A. Wilson, former member of the Saskatchewan legislature, by 21 votes.

A. H. Cox was returned by acclamation as the secretary.

The association expressed confidence in Prime Minister St. Laurent, Fisheries Minister Mayhew and Premier Johnson. These three men, along with former Prime Minister King, were re-elected honorary officers.

Kitchen Most Improved Room In Home, Extension Audience Told

In spite of large modernistic living-rooms with glass walls and the like, the kitchen is the most improved room in the home in the past 10 years, according to Miss C. S. Black, head of the department of economics at the University of British Columbia.

Prof. Black gave this opinion Monday night at the Victoria College-Normal School auditorium as she addressed more than 100 persons at a meeting of the Victoria branch of the university extension association.

The speaker emphasized throughout her hour-long talk that the family was the important basis of our civilization and the home was merely the shell within and around which the family existed.

PEOPLE IN THE HOME

It is the people in the home who must be considered in building a house—it should be made to conform to the needs of the occupants, Prof. Black pointed out, noting that nowadays in too many cases the situation was the other way around.

She advocated more storage space in houses, defining storage space as different from cupboard space. Things should be stored in spaces built to accommodate them, and in the proximity of the part of the house where they will usually be used, she said.

The speaker noted few houses now have attics which can be used for long-term storage.

Prof. Black said she thought the design of modern houses tended to draw away from the "family circle" feeling of past generations. She added that the community centre, while valuable, could not replace that feeling.

PROF. PETTIT NEXT

One of the most interesting talks of the current extension association series is scheduled for Dec. 5 when Prof. Sydney Pettit speaks on what is probably his favorite novelist, Arthur Koestler.

$440,000 Theatres

NANAIMO—Two drive-in theatres and a conventional theatre, worth a total of $440,000, are planned for Nanaimo and district. The theatre is to be on Terminal Avenue, while the two drive-ins, costing $240,000, both will be north of the city.

Accepts Bond Bid

Greater Victoria School Board on Monday night accepted a tender of Pemberton and Son Vancouver Ltd. in the floating of a $27,000 bond issue for school building purposes.

The amount set for the three per cent debentures dated from 1950 to 1967 was $95.29.

ODEON THEATRE

To help Columbus (Fredric March) find his way to the New World in "Christopher Columbus," now being shown at the Odeon Theatre, reproductions of 15th century navigating instruments were made. They included an astrolabe—for finding the positions of heavenly bodies—a quadrant and compasses. From an old print, Ptolemy's map of the world was reproduced on parchment, and from the records of Bartholomew Columbus, Christopher's brother, the explorer's own sailing maps were copied.

PLAZA THEATRE

Oldtime westerners, who know about such things, say that Rod Cameron has the typical hands of a gunfighter—long, slender, and strong as steel. Cameron stars as a gunfighter in "Panhandle," the thrilling western film which is now at the Plaza Theatre.

MOVIE TALK

Mona Freeman returns to Paramount to play a bobby-soxer after being a kleptomaniac in "Shoplifter." She is due to continue her role in the "Dear Ruth" series, and she isn't too happy about it. "I've got to grow up sometime," she says.

Retake time in Hollywood: Opening scenes of "Sunset Boulevard" are being re-shot. The original had Bill Holden narrating the film from a morgue and conversing with other corpses. Preview audiences turned thumbs down. . . .

Walter Huston, at Tucson, Ariz., with "The Furies," has finished the first draft of his tome, "Ranch Style Cook Book."

Arts Centre Jury Show Held Over

AUDREY ST. D. JOHNSON

It is a thoroughly stimulating experience to visit the Arts Centre on Broughton Street, where the first jury show is being held over to the end of this week.

To find 83 pictures, all containing merit in various degrees and all by Vancover Island artists, is a matter for pride and pleasure. It is interesting, too, to consider how frequently similar subjects have been used and what a totally different treatment they have received in each case. Mediums are oil, water color and pastel and there are some interesting sculpture pieces by David Packard, G. Watson and Grace M. Heddle and an attractive sample of the potter's art by Molly Barber-Starkey.

Everyone who visits this show—and it is not necessary to be an art connaisseur to enjoy such a versatile display — will soon select their favorite quite independently of what anyone else may say regarding relative merit. Which is one of the fine democratic things about such a show.

For our own part, we liked immensely, Constance Bonner's cool, sharply defined water color of "Fishing Boats" and I. H. Wyllie's brilliant zinnias. There are two distinguished oils by Arthur Checkley, challenging work by Joy Mundey and several arresting portraits; one in particular, a vital, characterful study of "A Native Gentleman," by Rudolf Sigrist.

There are many more that would repay long, careful consideration, companionable pictures and bold, aggressive studies, flaring with color, and strong in rhythmic composition.

An interesting group of paintings by young children is an important phase of the exhibition.

Big Dam Might Hurt Fraser Navigation, Engineers Told

Russell E. Potter said here last week that arrangements should be made to prevent the Aluminum Company of Canada Ltd. proposed Nechako dam from making the lower Fraser River unnavigable.

Mr. Potter is executive assistant to the Dominion-Provincial Fraser River Basin Board and he was addressing the Victoria branch of the Engineering Institute of Canada. The board was formed last year to study flood control, fisheries, power development and other natural resources of the Fraser River basin. It consists of federal and provincial engineers and other experts and its work to date has been mainly the collection and organization of all information on the basin.

The proposed Alcan dam might lower the watre level in the Fraser's navigable reaches because water would be diverted from the Nechako westward through the Cascades. This would tend to reduce the flood menace of the Fraser.

In the spring the Nechako pours up to 30,000 cubic feet of water a second into the Fraser. The dam, it has been estimated, would divert about 5½ per cent of the total Fraser flood waters, said Mr. Potter.

He urged that the dam be made a multi-purpose dam. Power, flood control and fisheries would have to be considered, he said.

Health and Welfare Minister George S. Pearson will address the Saanich Liberal Association's monthly meeting at 8 Wednesday night in Liberal Headquarters, 1322-A Government Street. He is expected to discuss hospital insurance.

McKENNEY ON BRIDGE

Whenever I go to Washington, I always enjoy my luncheon date with Maj.-Gen. James A. Ulio.

One must admire the active minds of the men who have handled our gigantic military undertakings. When I am with one of these men, who is also a card player, I enjoy laying out a hand and discussing the tactics of the play with him, as compared to military strategy.

Take today's hand, for example. On the opening lead of the deuce of diamonds you play the five-spot from dummy and East puts on the queen. Would you win this trick?

Before you say yes or no, let us look over the situation. We know that we have a losing diamond, and if the ace of hearts is on the wrong side, we have two losing hearts. That is nothing to worry about if we find the king of clubs right—but the military may says, "Nothing is sure to be right. Plan your defence and attack on the assumption that everything is wrong."

Therefore we must keep West out of the lead. Let East hold the first trick. He will return a diamond and you take it with the ace. Now pick up the trumps and lead the queen of clubs. East wins with the king, but now he cannot get West in to lead a heart. He can return a club or cash his ace of hearts. If he leads a diamond, South discards a heart from his hand, trumps in dummy, and the other two hearts are thrown away on dummy's good clubs. That way you actually make five-odd.

Washington State To Make Deep Cut In Welfare Grants

OLYMPIA (AP)—Public welfare grants in the State of Washington will be cut, beginning Jan. 1.

The cuts, predicted for some time, were confirmed Monday by Roderic Olzendam, state director of social security. He did not say how deep the cuts would be.

The reductions will affect 144,000 persons who receive aid directly or indirectly from one of the following social security programs: Old age assistance, aid to dependent children, and general assistance.

William K. Moors, assistant director of social security, said the cuts were being made for two reasons:

1. To keep expenditures of the department within the amount of money made available by the last legislature.

2. To make the available funds last throughout the biennium which will end March 31, 1951.

He asserted the reductions will be deeper than the proposed Nov. 1 reductions which were halted by court order.

The Nov. 1 cuts, ranging up to 35 per cent in some categories, were designed to cut social security expenditures $850,000 a month.

He said the exact amount of the cuts, to total in excess of $850,000 a month, will be announced late this week.

Aussie Teacher Finds World Her Oyster; No Stay-At-Home Now

By AILEEN CAMPBELL

Time was when people thought school teachers were "stay-at-homes" but Doreen Bonhote of Wynyard, Tasmania, had different ideas — she didn't just dream of London and Paris, she went half way round the world to see for herself.

As a free-lance teacher with odd jobs thrown in — such as clerking in an Ottawa department store when she landed in Canada with only five pounds sterling, the friendly Australian woman has had the time of her life.

At present staying with Mrs. A. M. Appleby of 612 Battery Street and teaching at MacKenzie Avenue, Miss Bonhote is at the tag end of her trip around the world which began two years ago.

She will leave Victoria in December for the last lap of her journey home, sailing aboard the Aorangi.

MISS DOREEN BONHOTE

'LOVED LONDON'

"I loved every minute of London," said Miss Bonhote in an interview today. "We went to a Buckingham Palace garden party . . . saw the Sadler's Wells Ballet, 'Annie Get Your Gun' and 'Worm's Eye View' . . ."

"We got up at 3 in the morning to queue for tickets for the England-Australia test cricket match."

Teaching primary in a demonstration school in London, with all the leave of absence she wanted for jaunts to the continent was a stimulating experience. Teachers from all parts of Europe used to visit the school in the southwest of London.

"In Paris we lived as the French do . . . stayed at hostels, cooked our own food," said Miss Bonhote, who has a fondness for large old world cities though at home she teaches school in a town of not more than 3,000 population.

CARRIES OWN FOOD

"Food was rationed in France then and we would have starved if we hadn't brought food with us. The restaurants were very dear."

Conditions in Britain, she said were hard but the "people wonderful." Parcels from overseas are as eagerly anticipated as ever she added. Of special interest to Miss Bonhote was a visit to Switzerland, where her father was born.

"There is much emigration from Britain for the people realize the country is overcrowded and there are not the same opportunities as in a younger, less-populated land," according to Miss Bonhote. "Many families are going out to Australia since the Australian government pays the passage for ex-servicemen and their families."

Conditions in Canada to what she saw in Europe and even in her own Australia, are very good in comparison.

"If I translated my Australian pounds into dollars my annual salary would be about $1,000 a year, while here it is twice that," said Miss Bonhote. "The salary is more than double but the cost of living in Canada is not twice as high.

"You have to live much more carefully in Australia."

She found teaching in Canada a most enjoyable experience. Children, she feels have a freer way of speaking, "but not cheeky," and generally finds a more informal atmosphere.

"In Australia we expect more in a scholastic way, but after my trip, I don't think it is a good thing," said Miss Bonhote. "I will be going back with some very different ideas."

Accompanying Miss Bonhote on her world tour was Miss Fay Capell, also of Wynyard, who has been teaching at an Indian school near Prince Rupert.

RAISIN ZABAGLIONE

The big trick to making this festive "raisin zabaglione" is to cook the eggs only until they are light and thick. A couple of minutes of overcooking will cause it to curdle. This makes a delicious easy-to-make party dessert:

Half cup seedless raisins, six egg yolks, six tablespoons granulated sugar, six tablespoons sherry wine, few grains salt. Rinse raisins, cover with water and boil five minutes. Drain. Combine egg yolks, sugar, wine and salt. Place over boiling water and beat with rotary beater until very light and thick. Remove from heat and fold in raisins. Serve at once. Serves five to six.

Your Baby And Mine

By MYRTLE MEYER ELDRED

BABY SUFFERS FOR HOUSING SECURITY

Every person has to be appreciative of viewpoints different from her own, and eager to preserve her friendships, whatever the difference of viewpoint may be. But, not at the cost of the baby's welfare or well-being. No one can allow neighbors to feed the baby cookies or candy, because it pleases them to do so; or disrupt their sleeping hours for their convenience.

Mrs. S. H. is right up against the problem of whether to antagonize a landlord or suffer her baby to be upset by her.

"My husband and I live in two rooms," she writes, "and we have a six-months-old baby who is very nervous. The woman who owns the house is a wonderful person, in many ways, but she annoys me as far as the baby is concerned.

"She works all day and as soon as she comes home she runs right upstairs to see the baby and even if he is on my lap and I am feeding him, she snatches him up and tosses him around and it usually ends up with him vomiting, or else the meal goes uneaten until it is cold.

"Then if she has company she feels she has the right to take him downstairs and pass him around, even if I am waiting to feed him.

"This affects the baby and my husband, too. He is nervous and can't stand a lot of crying. Showing him off causes the baby to cry for an hour afterwards. He is nervous with strangers.

"My doctor has told me to keep the baby quiet and it seems futile to me to struggle with him all day and then have him upset in the evening and Sundays. Because of housing conditions have we a right to ask her to refrain from upsetting the baby?"

That would seem to be rude and unnecessary in so many words. But, you do not need to make the baby pay for your housing security.

When she comes up to see the baby, ask her in friendly fashion if she would mind waiting until he has had his meal and a rest period so he won't spit it up? Then suggest that you'll bring him down to visit her.

When she has company go along with the baby, explaining that he is upset by strangers and then hold him on your lap and let the visitors admire him.

The distinctive design here illustrated fills the desires of many prospective home owners who require three bedrooms on the first floor. The layout is commodious totaling 1,800 square feet. Axial lines are developed in the plan to provide focal points of interest.

The large living-room, suggested in knotty pine finish has an attractive bay window and a beautifully detailed fireplace. This is of the "Heatilator" type and will readily heat the living-room, hall and dinette, providing a 40-degree temperature change. This effects a big saving in fuel consumption.

A connecting Wisteria pergola off the service entrance is suggested to connect the garage. This plan is excellent for a corner lot and reuires at least 15 feet frontage. Design is in Early Colonial.

This is another in the Times series of practical homes designed by Harold C. Beckett, architect, Windsor, Ontario.

Christmas Bonus 'Same Every Year'

Social assistance recipients in Esquimalt will receive the usual Christmas bonus this year at the usual rate.

Municipal council at a meeting Monday agreed to award an extra $3.20 to heads of families in receipt of the welfare allowance and an extra $1.20 to other recipients for the month of December.

Councillor James Ellis observed that in view of the present high cost of living the bonus would not go very far and asked if it couldn't be increased.

"I notice it's the same every year," the councillor remarked. "It seems to be very low!"

Others on the council agreed the amount was low but Councillor Ellis received no support to his suggestion of increasing it.

Open Fund To Help Burned Six-Year-Old

Reeve's Question Gets Swift Answer

Reeve A. I. Thomas of Esquimalt during an argument with an irate ratepayer at a council meeting Monday night demanded of the citizen, "How long have you lived in Esquimalt, anyway?"

The complainant, Hans Kroeger, though for a moment, then replied casually, "About 50 years."

Reeve Thomas, realizing he would get nowhere pressing his arguments any further along that line of thought, graciously complimented the citizen on his long residence in the municipality before proceeding further with the debate.

Esquimalt Council at a meeting Monday night decided to call tenders for the sale of school debentures amounting to $102,000 which were authorized by ratepayers in the municipality two years ago.

Englishwoman Starts Goat Farm Here

Optimism is the keyword for these members of an English household which was moved 7,000 miles from Oxfordshire, England, to a 25-acre farm a mile outside Nanaimo to establish a goat-milk industry with 30 imported prize goats. They are, left, Mrs. May Stansby, who began farming in England following her husband's death three years ago; her housekeeper, Miss C. H. Stone, and Miss Heather Stansby. The dogs, who also made the long journey, are: Pooh, the setter; Flossie, the miniature dachshund; Bolly, the golden retriever, and Fru-Fru, the French poodle. Mrs. Stansby's other daughter, Anne, still is in Quebec looking after the goats until their period of quarantine is over.—(Island Events Photo by Alec Merriman)

Saanich Sewer Pipe Through Esquimalt Cause For Concern

Esquimalt Council has made no commitments in regard to allowing Saanich the right to lay a sewer main through Esquimalt to empty out to the sea at Saxe Point, Reeve A. I. Thomas avowed at a municipal council meeting Monday mght.

The reeve's statement came in answer to a question from R. M. Wellwood, 1121 Munro Street, who told council he viewed with alarm press reports that Saanich was submitting a sewerage plan to its voters whereby houses in inner wards would be served by a sanitation system which would carry away waste—through pipes in Esquimalt—and dump it in the sea at Saxe Point.

"There are only two beaches in Esquimalt," Mr. Wellwood said in addressing council. "And this sewer would come between them."

The citizen termed statements of engineers that once the sewerage had emptied into the ocean it would be carried far out as "ridiculous."

"I live on a beach and I know what comes in on the beach. The stuff comes in by the ton," he said.

Reeve Thomas pointed out that the municipality would have no recourse if the provincial department of health decided to enter into the case and order a Saanich sewerage system with an outlet through Esquimalt.

"But," he made clear, "this council has not committed itself in the matter in any way."

No Work This Year

An appeal for persons who live on property overlooking Constance Cove in Esquimalt was made by Councillor Charles Smith at Esquimalt Council meeting Monday night.

The residents in question had written the council asking that a bridge or path be put through to their homes from Canteen Road. At present, it was pointed out, there is no proper access to their dwellings.

Councillor Smith considered money should be allocated to do some work of the nature requested.

"All they (the residents) have had down there from this council are receipts from their taxes. They have had no work," he said.

Majority of councillors thought the matter should be stood over to be dealt with by next year's council.

Objects To Wall

Hans Kroeger, 880 Craigflower Road, appeared before Esquimalt Council Monday night to complain that a retaining wall constructed in front of his home to support a new, raised section of the roadway had lessened the value of his property.

Mr. Kroeger complained that the wall was not only unsightly but that it made it difficult for cars to enter and back out of private driveways and that it would constitute a flood menace during a period of heavy rains.

Council informed the complainant there was nothing it could do about the wall but that he could appeal to the next court of revision to lower his assessment if he believed the value of his property had been lowered.

New Victoria Radio Station To Operate From Douglas Hotel; Starts At New Year

A new radio station to serve Greater Victoria and vicinity will be put into operation early in the New Year.

The new station, to be known as CKDA, will be located in the heart of the business district in the Douglas Hotel, 1450 Douglas Street. An agreement between David Armstrong, owner and manager of the new station, and James Neely, managing director of the hotel, was signed Monday evening.

Under the terms of agreement, the radio station will lease from the hotel the entire lower main floor, which has a floor area of some 3,500 square feet.

Mr. Armstrong, in an interview following the business deal, said a contract would be awarded a building firm this week to convert the space into ultra-modern studios and offices. Plans for conversion, he said, have been prepared by the architectural firm of Birley, Wade and Stockdill and have been checked by radio engineers.

Two large studios are planned as well as two smaller ones. Studio A, largest of the four, will be big enough to accommodate a 30-piece orchestra, Mr. Armstrong said.

General Electric of Canada has been awarded the contract to equip the station.

"General Electric is the only company whose radio equipment is all of post-war design," Mr. Armstrong said. "The equipment we install will be the latest."

WORTH $75,000

"Ours will be the most modern equipped station on the coast," he added. "It will be worth $75,000."

The station will operate seven days a week from 6 a.m. to 12 midnight each day. It will provide programs of all descriptions but will feature musical shows, news and sport broadcasts.

Ten thousand musical recordings and transcriptions are on order and will be delivered prior to the station's opening, Mr. Armstrong said.

CKDA will have a power of 250 watts and will be located at 1340 on radio dials. A 150-foot steel transmitting tower will be constructed in the Cedar Hill area of Saanich.

"TO BOOM IN"

Mr. Armstrong gave assurance the station will "boom in" on all districts in and around Greater Victoria.

Born in Roblin, Manitoba, the new station owner came to Victoria as a youth and attended Mount View High School and Victoria College here. His first radio job was with CFCT in Victoria. From here he went to Prince Albert, Saskatchewan, to take over duties as program director at station CKBI.

From there he came to Vancouver where he became sales manager of CKMO and then in 1944 switched to CKNW in New Westminster as assistant manager. Early this year, he was made manager of the New Westminster station, but severed all connection when the CBC Board of Governors gave him the go-ahead signal for a station of his own in Victoria.

"I always wanted to come back to this city," he said in an interview. "Most progressive cities the size of Victoria have two stations, and I am happy to be able to bring a second here."

VICTORIA HIS HOME

Mr. Armstrong said he considered Victoria as home not only because of his boyhood here but because his parents, Mr. and Mrs. William Armstrong, still reside here. They live at 1068 Primrose Street.

Mr. Armstrong will manage CKDA himself. Gordon Reid, now with station CFRN, Edmonton, will be assistant manager.

Dave Hill, until recently with Vancouver's CJOR, has been named sales manager, and Ross McIntyre of CKWX, is chief engineer.

Mr. McIntyre is already in Victoria and will supervise installation of wiring and equipment, and erection of the transmitting tower.

The station will be formally opened between Jan. 1 and Jan. 15.

Not Prepared To Sell Wartime Houses

WINNIPEG (CP)—The city housing committee Monday reversed a previous decision and decided not to allow sale of wartime houses at the present time.

This was done despite a warning that the Central Mortgage and Housing Corporation would sell wartime houses to present tenants commencing next year, without permission from Canadian municipalities.

Alderman H. B. Scott, housing committee chairman, said that E. Hignett, prairie regional supervisor for C.M.H.C., had warned that wartime houses will be sold as soon as the land on which they stand can be bought from the municipality for $200 or less.

In Winnipeg's case, this can be done for some of the city's 1,800 wartime houses in 1950.

Ald. Scott said Winnipeg would not win financially if it sold the houses.

Liniment On Harness To Stop Huskies Chewing It Apart

BIG DELTA, Alaska (AP)—Cecil A. (Mush) Moore, bothered with dog trouble, repaired harness and two lines today, and resumed his 5,000-mile sled trek from Fairbanks, Alaska, to Maine.

After a repair job, he's going to try liniment to foil his team of Alaska huskies who have their own ideas of dogsled pulling.

Moore checked in here Sunday after covering about 100 miles on the Alaska Highway since his departure from Fairbanks a week ago. His journey is to raise money for underprivileged children.

When he arrived, part of his team's harness and the half-inch rope tow lines had been chewed up by his dogs. The liniment idea is his own. He hopes that dousing the leather and rope with the strong smelling stuff will discourage the animals.

He headed for Halfway House, 30 miles from here.

Most of his stops thus far have been at cabins along the highway, but on two nights he had to pitch his tent in below-zero weather.

HARD-WORKING MINERS

GLEN RHONDDA, Eng. (CP)—A coal pit here recently yielded more coal in one week than in any week since it opened 70 years ago.

AFTER a wonderful job of promotion, Bill Veeck Monday capitalized on his efforts with the sale of the Cleveland ball club for better than two million dollars. Baseball leaders and fans are now starting to wonder just where the surprising Mr. Veeck will turn up next. It's practically a cinch the fellow who has a fetish against wearing a tie (wonder if he will wear a cravat for his forthcoming wedding) will not stay out of baseball. Several of the major league teams who experience trouble attracting fans through the turnstiles might well take advantage of Veeck's proven promotional abilities.

ALTHOUGH he was recognized as "Mr. Baseball" during his tenure at Cleveland, Veeck did not always enjoy clear sailing. He nearly brought the roof down on his head when he threatened to trade off playing manager Lou Boudreau, recognized as one of the greatest shortstops in the history of the sport. Even after Boudreau won him a world championship Veeck declared he was still not satisfied as to Lou's ability as a manager. Veeck also stole a march on the other major league teams when he signed the veteran negro hurler Satchel Paige to a contract. Many of his fellow owners scoffed at Veeck's actions but the Cleveland boss had the last laugh when old "Satch" won several games and played no small part in the Indians' pennant success.

INSURANCE executive Ellis Ryan, who headed the group that purchased the Indians, is rapidly becoming a leading figure in Cleveland sports. Ryan also was top man in the purchase of the Cleveland American Hockey League club from Al Sutphin. It would be interesting to learn if Veeck was personally responsible for engineering the deal or whether his hand was forced by the Chicago banks for whom he held a large percentage of stock.

DICK SURPHLIS is happy to be back in the Pacific Northwest. Chatting to the Victoria boy who is now associated with Muzz Patrick in the operations of the Tacoma Arena Dick declared himself perfectly satisfied to get away from New York City. "It's a good city for a single fellow, but now that I am married I was glad to break away," Dick told me. Surphlis will work the year round with Patrick. It is well known that Muzz is anxious to promote summer activities in his rink. He would like to see a Pacific Northwest box lacrosse league organized. "The clubs in Vancouver and New Westminster will soon have to invade virgin territory and I would be willing to enter into such a circuit along with Victoria," Patrick declared. "I think the game could be put over in Tacoma with the right kind of promotion work."

Coast League Champions Here For Puck Clash With Cougars

The defending Pacific Coast Hockey League champions —San Diego Skyhawks—will make their only appearance of the season in Victoria tonight when they play the Cougars at the Memorial Arena at 8.30.

The Skyhawks, who opened their northern division tour by gaining ties with both Portland and the league-leading Seattle Ironmen, are currently in second place in the southern division race.

The present team includes seven members of last year's championship squad and eight newcomers.

Coach Morden "Ducky" Skinner of the San Diego team is in his second season with the club and he considers this year's team superior to the one that captured the laurels last year.

VETERAN GOALIE

In goal for the visitors will be Larry Frechette, now in his third season with the club. The veteran French-Canadian is considered one of the soundest netminders in the league. He helped the Skyhawks to the P.C.H.L. finals in 1947-48 and played a major part in the title-winning effort last season. He has scored one shutout this year.

Two holdovers, Norman "Red" McKay and John Baby, form the first defence unit with Doug. Maher and Hec Legris forming the other rearguard combination. McKay is a steady performer while Baby is the bruising type.

On one forward line Pete Wywrot centres Maurice Vaillancourt and "Moose" Lallon, while the high-scoring line of the team is composed of Freddie Weaver at centre and Bill Cupolo on right wing and Stan Warecki on the left flank.

The third forward unit finds wings Jacky Lalonde and Rusty Aikin flanking centre Andy Brown.

Cupolo turned professional with Boston Bruins in 1944-45, scoring 27 points in 47 games with the N.H.L. team.

LEADING SCORER

Vaillancourt has been San Diego's top scorer during the past two years and in 1947-48 won the southern-division scoring title. Last year he finished fourth.

Brown is another experienced performer. Last year he finished near the top in the U.S.-H.L. with a total of 57 points in 55 games.

Two rookies on the squad are Lalonde and utility forward Pete Tkachuk.

Down in Portland coach Jimmie Ward has issued the Coast League's standard ulitimatum "produce or else" to his Penguins. Ward said his team is lying down on the job. The Penguins have been in the northern division cellar since the start of the season.

Greenwood Defends Action In Releasing Prof. Hart's Report

VANCOUVER (CP) — Sid Greenwood, secretary of the B.C. branch, Amateur Athletic Union of Canada, denied Monday there had been a breach of "ethical standards" in the release here of a report of Prof. Nelson C. Hart of London, Ont.

Prof. Hart, president of the A.A.U.C., criticized a story published by the Province, based on his report and predicting suspension of two boxers from the British Empire Games team. The suspensions, it was indicated, would follow charges of professionalism in the Ontario and Manitoba boxing associations.

He said use of the material "was a breach of ethical standards of the press."

NOT CONFIDENTIAL

Greenwood said there was no suggestion that the material in the report was confidential.

"Prof. Hart made no mention of the report being secret and there was no specified release date."

Greenwood released the report to the press last week, and he defended his action, saying: "We are trying hard to keep our people in line out here. We certainly do not want boxing in B.C. to descend to the level of those other provinces.

"The Hart report clearly stated that breaches of amateur regulations have been committed in Ontario and Manitoba, and by inference, said that boxers from those provinces may not be allowed to compete in any international tournaments."

Oak Bay Captures Junior Rugby Title By Single Point

FINAL STANDINGS

Coming from behind a 3 to 0 deficit, Oak Bay High rallied to tie the Victoria High Greens 3 to 3 in the last scheduled Interhigh Junior Rugby League tilt yesterday afternoon at Windsor Park to capture the crown, finishing a single point in front of the two Vic High fifteens.

Game was close all the way, and the Greens gained their lead in the first half when Ernie Unwin made good a free kick.

The titilists knotted the count about midway through the second session—also on a penalty kick. It was "Wink" Vogel who gained the plaudits of his teammates, as it was his boot that tied it up, giving Oak Bay the crown.

Victoria West Gains School Soccer Final

Victoria West yesterday qualified for the elementary schools' senior boys' soccer championship by defeating Monterey, 1 to 0.

Wests will meet Willows in the final. The date of the game will be announced later.

Passing Duel Looms In Gridiron Finals

OAKVILLE, Ont. (CP)—Montreal spies hanging around Appleby College probably haven't anything to show for their efforts but a good case of the sniffles.

Cold winds were blowing off Lake Ontario, adjacent to the playing field, as coach Les Lear put his Dominion champion Calgary Stampeders through a two-hour tough rugby and pass defence workout in the morning yesterday and a two-and-a-half-hour afternoon drill. Lear made sure no Calgary "secret weapons" were displayed.

Coach Lear, usually the non-committal type, said of his own team—"Well they are better than last year." Of the Montreal Alouettes, the opposition Saturday in the Grey Cup final, he was almost non-committal. His description of what he saw in their eastern final victory over Hamilton was "good." He probably didn't see much at that as Lew Hayman kept most of his stars under wraps in the 40 to 0 triumph over Hamilton Tigers.

TWO GREAT PASSERS

One question to be solved in the big game: Who is the best passer, Frankie Filchock of the Als, the former New York Giant flinger, or Keith Spaith, former pro with Honolulu Warriors?

If talking up a future game or tearing around like a bunch of gazelles can be taken as evidence, then the Stamps are still hungry. Manager Archie McGillis phrased it this way: "We haven't lost our appetite one little bit since we defeated Ottawa in last year's final."

Two practices are scheduled for today and two more daily until the club makes the 20-mile jaunt to Toronto Friday.

Latest odds quoted in Montreal have the Alouettes as 6 to 5 favorites.

The Als were scheduled to work out today for the first time since Sunday. Last night they held a clubhouse discussion in which they talked over the strategy they will apply against Stamps. The team will go through workouts again tomorrow and Thursday, leaving for Toronto Friday afternoon.

Saskatoon Tops Get Evergreen Bowl Bid

VANCOUVER (CP) — Officials of the Junior Big Four Canadian Football League here said today they have invited the Saskatoon Hilltops club to play Vancouver Blue Bombers in the annual Evergreen Bowl game Jan. 2.

Blue Bombers defeated Hilltops in the western Canada final sudden-death game Nov. 11, but lost out Saturday to Hamilton Wildcats in the Canadian final.

California Grabs Runner-up Position In U.S. Grid Poll

NEW YORK (AP)—California has taken over the job of chasing distant Notre Dame in the Associated Press U.S. college football poll.

The next-to-last voting of the season finds Notre Dame still way out front with 113 of the 151 first-place votes cast by football writers and sportscasters across the U.S.

California moved into second place with 24 first after its convincing 33 to 14 triumph over Stanford to win the Pacific Coast conference crown.

Oklahoma dropped a peg to third position, being hard pressed to grab a 28 to 21 verdict over Santa Clara. Eleven writers put the Sooners in the No. 1 spot.

Army, the other members of the "Big Four," held fourth place although idle getting ready for Saturday's big game with Navy. The Cadets drew one first-place vote and the other two went to the College of Pacific, 11th in the ratings.

Ohio State advanced two steps to fifth on the 7 to 7 tie with Michagan that earned a share of the Big 10 title and a Rose Bowl date with California.

College Beaten By Whitney's

St. Louis College gridders went down to their first defeat of the season in the Interscholastic Canadian Football League Sunday, bowing to a surprisingly strong Whitney's team, 29 to 11.

In the league's other game Gremlins walloped Vampires, 33 to 0. It was Vampires fourth straight defeat.

Moir, Bird Stars In Thrilling Cage Win

A pair of sharpshooting forwards—Bill Moir and Bob Bird—stole all the glory on last night's loop card at the High School gym as they led Victoria Confections to a thrilling 49 to 45 victory over Fletcher's Men's Wear.

Between them Moir and Bird racked up a total of 45 points, Moir notching 23 and Bird one less. And they did the trick with their backs to the wall.

Fletcher's started out as if they were going to make a runaway of the game by piling up a 19 to 6 lead at quarter time. The clothiers still led 26 to 19 at the half but Bird and Moir were finding the range by this time.

In the second half Bird hit the hemp for 15 points and Moir for 13 as Confections slowly cut into Fletcher's lead, finally catching the clothiers in the final quarter to garner a well-earned four-point victory. Boughey with two and McArthur with two accounted for the winners other four points. Wylie with 13 paced Fletcher's.

MOOSE IN VICTORY

In other games on the card Moose edged Bomberettes, 24 to 22, in a women's game and Tillicums routed Chinese Students, 42 to 24, in a junior boys contest. Len Anderson showed the way for the winners with 19 points. Reg. Derr was high for the Students with 15.

Teams and scorers follow:

Fletchers—Bamford 6, Robinson 1, Hartley, McCorkall 6, Wylie 13, Ferris 6, Loutit 8, Geisser 5.

Regina Caps Show Scoring Power In Drubbing Quakers

REGINA (CP) — Saturday night Regina Capitals toppled Saskatoon Quakers into the cellar of the Western Canada Senior Hockey League, and last night they put the boots to them.

Quakers, who have been in last place twice this season, were out to pull a switcheroo and send Caps to the bottom again, but the Regina crew wasn't having any of it.

The 13 to 3 drubbing they handed their northern rivals made Quakers look as bad as they did before their brief comeback.

Almost the entire Regina lineup appeared in the scoring column. Ab McDougall, Bob Wiest, Toby Brown and Harvey Stein racked up two goals apiece, with McDougall also collecting a pair of assists. Gordie Staseson, Norm Blackett, Jack Wilkie, Lou Hauck and Bill Kyle scored once each, and Hauck added four assists and Bill Kyle two.

The opening whistle saw Caps light right out for the Quaker net, testing Cliff Dobson from every angle. They scored twice in the first period to Quakers' once.

But in the second the lid was off. Seven pucks sizzled past the luckless Dobson, while his teammates racked up a pair.

Alan Kuntz Takes Command As Coast Loop's Leading Scorer

Rudy Filion's month-long reign at the top of the Pacific Coast Hockey League northern division's scoring race, which became endangered a week ago when two opponents pulled on even terms with him, came to an abrupt end during the past week

Alan Kuntz, flashy Vancouver left wingman, who has been racking up points consistently during the past two weeks, has moved out in front by a six-point margin, latest unofficial figures show.

Kuntz picked up four points Saturday night against Tacoma to advance his total to 35 points. In addition, the shifty Canuck is the loop's top playmaker with 20 assists.

Filion is still in the race, however, sharing a three-way tie for the runner-up slot with teammate Cal Stearns and New Westminster's Kenny Ullyot, each with 29 points.

TOP SNIPER

Doug Adam, who leads the circuit in the sniping department with 20, is tied with Bobby Ballance of Vancouver for fifth place with 28 points.

Top man with the Cougars is popular Georges Bougie, who has flashed the red light 11 times and helped out on 13 occasions for a total of 24 points. Bougie is 10th on the scoring list and Larry Thibeault is tied for 11th position with Bill Shill and Scotty McPherson of Vancouver.

Leading the penalty parade this week is Tacoma's Norm Gustavsen, who has spent a total of 46 minutes in the lock-up, two more than teammate Joey Johns. Victoria's Tom Rockey is not far behind the two Rockets, however, with 43 minutes chalked up against him, and Pete Taillifer of Seattle is also in the race with 10 minors, a 10-minute misconduct and a match misconduct.

Richard Still Top Goal Scorer In N.H.L.

MONTREAL (CP)—Ted Lindsay of Detroit Red Wings continues to set the pace for the National Hockey League scorers as he holds down the first-place spot for the second consecutive week.

According to official league statistics released today, the swivel-hipped Lindsay commands the scoring parade with 21 points made up of eight goals and 13 assists.

The next two positions on the ladder are also held by Detroiters. In second place, two points back of Lindsay, is veteran Sid Abel with six goals and 13 assists, while Gordie Howe follows with nine goals and nine assists for an 18-point total.

Chicago's Doug Bentley is fourth with 17 and Paul Ronty of Boston Bruins is tied for fifth place with Chicago's Roy Conacher. Both have 15 points.

Despite a poor week in the goal-sniping department, Montreal Canadiens' Maurice Richard still leads that exclusive division with 12 goals. Lindsay and Abel with 13 assists are tied for the top spot in that department.

Annis Stukus Holds Edmonton Grid Post

EDMONTON (CP) — Annis Stukus, a strapping six-footer, whose football philosophy is to "play it fair but play it for keeps" will pilot Edmonton Eskimos again in the Western Interprovincial Rugby Football Union.

Stukus was reappointed coach after a five-hour meeting of the club's executive that lasted into the early hours of today.

Reappointment of the one-time backfield ace of Toronto Argonauts was no sure thing. Despite denials from the executive, sports writers and players continued to say the directors were split on whether Stukus should coach Esks again in 1950.

When Stukus was picked last spring, Edmonton had been out of the W.I.R.F.U. for 10 years. Football was at its lowest ebb here with University of Alberta Golden Bears the only training ground for followers of the game.

Esks entered the western union when it was at its highest point in many years. Calgary Stampeders had won the Grey Cup the previous year and seemed a stronger club this season. Saskatchewan Roughriders had spent large sums with the announced intention of beating Stamps and winning the Grey Cup. Winnipeg Blue Bombers was a weaker club that in previous years but no pushover.

WON FOUR GAMES

Despite this, Esks won four of 14 games, even with a switch in mid-season from the popular T formation to the old style single wing-back.

Stukus never discussed the matter publicly. When the announcement was made by manager Al Anderson, his relief that the matter had been decided was obvious.

"I'm very happy to get a chance to finish the job I started," he said.

"It's too early to say what our plans are for next season; I'll be in Toronto for the Grey Cup finals Saturday and will scout around and see what the player prospects are there."

Navy Gains Command In Mercantile Hockey

Coming from behind to gain a 1 to 1 sawoff with the Civil Service sextette, the Navy moved into undisputed leadership of the Victoria Commercial Hockey League in the first game of the three-game card at the Memorial Arena last night.

The undefeated Tars vaulted a single point in front of the Servants and the Coach Lines, who were upset by the improved Douglas Tire squad, 5 to 2, in the second game. The free-scoring finale saw the Hotelmen edge Brotherhood of Papermakers, 8 to 7, on a late goal by Bill Jensen.

Most of the 1,899 fans were still coming into the Arena when Hallam picked up a pass from Mason and blasted the puck home to boost Civil Service into a one-goal lead. The rejuvenated Servants ran rings around the Navy squad most of the period, and it was only through the fine work of goalie Norman Jones that kept them from increasing their margin.

TIES SCORE

Second period was almost eight minutes old before Dutch Kramp counted the equalizer on a double relay from John Coulter and Steve Harris. Teams were scoreless in the third stanza.

Although taking the lead on two separate occasions, the Coach Lines were never permitted to get too far out in front as the Tiremen threw everything they had into the contest and a three-goal third period rally gave them the victory.

Shifty Norm LaCree opened the scoring for the busmen at 1.52 of the opening canto when he converted Ed Varga's pass, and it was 13 minutes later before Ken Gunter went in on a solo effort to tie the score despite the fact that teammate Don Gillespie was sitting in the penalty box for a two-minute tripping infraction.

Varga flashed the red light at 13.29 in the second frame to give losers a 2 to 1 edge, but Duke Collins tie it up again.

The tiremen ran wild in the finale. After Gunter scored the winner at 12.51, Len Elphick supplied the clincher and Del Bertrand added another for good measure and the Coach Lines went down to their first defeat.

Fans had a good inkling as to what kind of a game the third would turn out to be as each squad fired four goals apiece in the first stanza. Fowler opened the scoring for B.O.P. at 3.50 after taking Roy Derry's pass and Luke Lucas tied it up at 8.12 on passes from Timber and Brewis. Jim Gallant shoved the Hotelmen into a 2 to 1 lead four minutes later on a pass from Bill Jensen, but Derry deadlocked it again going into the second period.

LEAD SWITCHES

Goals came thick and fast in the next two periods as first one team and then the other grabbed the lead. Feature of the game was fine play turned in by Bill Jensen of Hotelmen, who figured in all but one of their eight tallies. It was Jensen who fired the winner at 18.11 of the third period, as the B.O.P. sextette had come from a two-goal deficit late in the period to tie the score.

A total of six penalties were called by referee Leo Ornest, all to the Hotelmen.

League officials announced that two cups had been donated for competition. The Cross Cup goes to the league champion, while the Francis Jewelery Cup will go to the goalkeeper voted the most valuable to his team throughout the season.

League play continues Thursday night with another three-game card. B.O.P. will meet Douglas Tire in the opener at 7, with Hotelmen tackling the Navy in the middle tilt. Coach Lines will meet Civil Service in the third game.

Don Pimlott Awarded 'Y' Aldous Trophy

Don Pimlott has been awarded the Aldous Trophy as the most sportsmanlike member of the "Y" track and field club.

Presentation of the trophy was made at the club's recent annual meeting.

With coach Bruce Humber going to New Zealand as coach of the Canadian British Empire Games team, the club decided not to hold a winter meet this year.

However, hopes for next year are bright and the club is eagerly looking forward to the completion of the cinder track at Victoria High School.

It was suggested that the Victoria police be approached with regard to staging a sports meet here, similar to the Vancouver police sports, held annually on the mainland.

Gavilan's Speed Proves Too Much For Dauthuille

MONTREAL (CP)—Kid Gavilan, Cuban puncher, scored a unanimous 10-round decision here Monday night over Laurent Dauthuille of France in the featured event of a Montreal Forum boxing card.

The loss marked the first time Dauthuille has been defeated in North America.

Gavilan weighed 151 and Dauthuille 154½.

Gavilan was the aggressor throughout the 10 rounds while the Frenchman showed up best when he was caught in a few series of counter-punching exchanges with his lighter opponent.

The fight produced no knockdowns and both fighters appeared at the end of the bout with no cuts or injuries.

The Canadian Press score card showed six rounds for Gavilan, three for Dauthuille and one even.

Throughout Dauthuille found it difficult to land on the fast-moving Cuban.

The announcement of the decision in favor of Gavilan brought a booing from the crowd.

Dauthuille held a decided edge in three rounds, but was unable to match the Cuban's speed in the others.

Plea Changed To Force Trial In Meter Money Theft Case

In city police court today a city constable told how he had seen a man take the money contents from five parking meters and that a key found in his possession fitted all the rifled meters.

This was the case of Belton Turner, 649 Admirals Road, who has been charged with stealing $1.68 from parking meters on Fort and Blanshard Streets, on the night of Nov. 9.

Officer giving the court the facts was Constable James L. Smith, new addition to the police force.

While Patrick J. Sinnott, counsel, entered a plea of guilty to the charge at the outset on the grounds, expressed later, that Turner was drunk at the time, he withdrew the plea to force a trial when Claude L. Harrison, city prosecutor, questioned the point whether intoxication was an excuse in the matter.

TRIAL DATE FRIDAY

Trial date was set for Friday morning.

Constable Smith said he saw Turner at five of the meters on Fort and Blanshard Streets and go through the motions of emptying the plastic containers into his left-hand coat pocket.

The officer said that three keys were found in accused's vest pocket, one of which opened the five meters referred to. Constable Smith said the meters Turner had visited were empty but that there was money in adjacent ones.

In the accused's left-hand coat pocket, he said, was found $1.13 in pennies and 55 cents in nickels.

Questioned by Mr. Sinnott, Constable Smith said there was an odor of liquor on the breath of Turner "and he seemed stunned and appeared as if he did not know what was wrong."

One witness said Turner was intoxicated prior to the reported incident.

CHARACTER EVIDENCE

Gradwell Kilshaw said he had known Turner for a long time and gave good evidence as to character and honesty.

Milton King, real estate agent, said Turner was employed by him and in regard to his honesty said:

"He has handled tens of thousands of dollars for me and there is no question in my mind. His job is still open to him."

Mr. Sinnott contended that such actions could only be ascribed to a man who was drunk. He referred to his client as being a substantial and reputable citizen and that his actions were certainly not the normal actions of any man.

Mr. Sinnott pointed out that the constable's evidence showed there had been pedestrians about at the time.

Highest Average Wages Paid By Coal Mines Last Year

Coal mining paid the highest average weekly wages of 25 B.C. industries during 1948, the annual report of the provincial labor department showed today.

The report showed that the average weekly wages of the coal mining industry in 1948 was $54.40. In 1947, the coal mining industry placed sixth among the high wage payers.

Other phases of B.C.'s mining industry paid the second and third highest average weekly wages. Smelting and concentrating placed second, with an average weekly wage of $52.13, while metal mining placed third with $51.72.

Pulp and paper manufacturing held fourth position with $51.25, while oil refining was fifth with $50.38.

During 1948 coal mining employees received an average weekly wage boost of $8.86 for the highest of any of the 25 industries of the province. The smelting and concentrating industry tied with the oil refining and distributing industry for second place for the largest pay boost.

The report showed the provincial estimated payroll climbed from $557,075,508 in 1947 to an estimated $625,000,000 in 1948.

The average weekly industrial wage figure for all male wage earners rose to $47.30, an increase of $3.81 over the preceding year.

The high monthly employment figure for wage earners in 1948 was recorded at 160,002 in August. This compared with a high of 153,994 during the same month in 1947.

"Further decreases in the average weekly hours of work were general in most industries during the year," said the report. "Representing the average weekly working hours for all wage earners included in the survey, the figure of 42.24 established in 1947 declined fractionally to 42.21 for the year under review."

Number of firms, excluding public authorities, wholesale and retail firms, transcontinental railways and vessels engaged in deep-sea transportation, with payrolls in excess of $100,000 increased from 622 in 1947 to 713 in 1948.

Seven of these firms had payrolls in excess of $5,000,000. Fifty-three firms' payrolls exceeded $1,000,000.

L.P.P. Asks City To Move Against Rental Increases

The Labor Progressive Party today asked the City Council to urge the federal government to maintain rent controls at the present level until the housing situation has been relieved further.

A delegation of Hans Kroeger, president, and Doris Blakey, secretary of the party, appeared before the council.

In a brief to Mayor Percy George and aldermen the delegation predicted proposed relaxation of rent controls would have a serious effect here.

"Coming right after devaluation it will be a double barreled blow which will result in severe hardship and suffering to the majority of tenants," the brief stated.

It was claimed that old age pensioners and persons with fixed low income would find it impossible to "stretch their shrunken dollar" to cover a rent increase.

"Already there are reports of tenants getting notices to vacate rented premises, and many fear eviction," it was stated.

A resolution the party asked the council to endorse and forward to Finance Minister Abbott and Fisheries Minister Mayhew read:

"This council regards the relaxation of rent controls as being against the best interest of the Canadian people. We feel this move will result in severe hardship to a large number of tenants, many of whom are veterans, old age pensioners and persons living on small fixed incomes.

"We urge upon you the necessity of rescinding a 20 to 25 per cent rent increase and maintaining rent controls at the present level until the serious housing situation is relieved."

32% Of B.C. Workers Unionized In 1948

Unionization of British Columbia's labor force reached an all-time record in 1948.

The labor department in its annual report issued today disclosed that, during 1948, 745 labor organizations in B.C. claimed memberships totaling 142,989. On last Dec. 1 the labor force of the province was estimated at 448,952. Thus 31.85 of the total labor force was unionized in 1948.

In 1947 it was estimated that 30.75 per cent of the total labor force in B.C. was unionized. In 1939 only 18.78 per cent of B.C.'s working men and women were unionized.

Warren Of Opinion Agreement Reached On Sewer Tunnel

Reeve E. C. Warren of Saanich today said he feels that in conferences of 1946 and 1947 with Esquimalt reeves and engineers agreement had been reached to allow the municipality to instal a sewage tunnel through Esquimalt to Saxe Point.

Objection to the proposed $405,000 tunnel involved in Saanich's $2,033,000 sewerage money by-law to be put to the ratepayers Dec. 10, was raised at the Esquimalt council meeting Monday night.

Reeve Warren said he would be pleased to meet the Esquimalt committee which had been struck to interview Saanich council on the question. He said it had been pointed out that 500 Esquimalt house connections to the tunnel could be made immediately and that connections could be raised to handle about 1,200 houses in the future.

The by-law has been drafted for provincial approval.

Fishing, Hunting Movies Feature Rangers' Smoker

Music and films featured the annual smoker of the South Vancouver Island Rangers Inc. Monday night in the auditorium of the Army, Navy and Airforce Club, Wharf and Broughton Streets. About 150 rangers, friends and guests headed by Mayor Percy George attended.

Program, in charge of Jack Bradford, was highlighted by 90 minutes of moving pictures of fishing and hunting in Alaska turned out by the manufacturers of the Nash car. Maurice Grossman handled the projector.

First film dealt with trout fly fishing action in the turbulent rivers of Alaska and showed some of the finest scenes of the annual salmon spawning migration upstream that have ever been filmed. The other dealt with big-game hunting in rugged snow-covered mountains and plains of the country.

Stage entertainment was provided chiefly by a threesome from the Hometowners, Bob McGill, Fred Usher and Ernie Fullerton, their offerings in song and comedy being thoroughly enjoyed by the gathering.

Program had little speech-making. Gordon Sword, head Ranger, however, referred to the Junior Rangers and their value to the organization. "Next to our emergency search system, the juniors come next," he said, the applause greeting this indicating the Rangers concurred with him.

The films are available for showing at service club meetings by contacting members of the social committee, Mr. Bradford informed the gathering.

Native Sons Here Would Combine New City Hall, Library

The Native Sons of Canada, Victoria Assembly No. 1, would have a new City Hall built, large enough to accommodate the public library.

In a letter to City Council today, the assembly reviewed a referendum taken in 1947 on the question of a site for a new City Hall and pointed out that of 6,448 votes cast, 5,228 were against the Qudra-Pembroke city property at the location.

"We are unable to understand," said Robert D. MacLachlan, secretary of the assembly, "the apparent booming for this rejected area in view of the fact several better locations are available."

Would Cut Council To Help Pay Manager

A suggestion that the City Council be reduced by from four to six aldermen was considered by Mayor Percy George and aldermen today.

The suggestion came from George A. Allen, 1104 Kings Road, who thought the move would reduce costs to help pay the salary of a city manager.

City Council is composed of a mayor and 10 aldermen.

Aldermen are paid $50 a month indemnity and $25 car allowance.

Doctor Testifies In Assault Case

"No physical injuries were found on the complainant," Dr. L. W. Bassett testified today at the trial of Petty Officer Nick Lazaruk, charged with the rape of a young married women in Oak Bay on May 20.

The trial of the R.C.N. seaman opened today before Mr. Justice James M. Coady. R. D. Harvey, K.C., is counsel for the Crown. Lazaruk is represented by James Proudfoot.

Mrs. P. J. Dawes, 147 Ontario Street, testified that the complainant was a guest at her apartment at the time the alleged assault took place.

The witness related that the complainant told her that she had been assaulted in a car by the accused by the sea off Beach Drive.

"She said she was afraid to jump out of the car because the car appeared to be on the edge of a cliff," stated Mrs. Dawes. "She was afraid that if she jumped she would fall into the sea."

The case is continuing.

Mrs. J. Gardner, Cambridge Auto Court, sustained an injured right leg when in collision with a car at Douglas and Cormorant Streets at 5.12 Monday evening, city police reported. Officers attending the scene said the car was driven west on Cormorant by Gordon Cameron, 2121 Runnymede Avenue, and that Mrs. Gardner was crossing Cormorant south to north.

Public Library Wing Cost $224,500

At opening Monday of tenders for addition to Public Library here were, from left: Ald. J. D. Hunter, F. N. Cabeldu, J. F. K. English, Mrs. M. E. Godson, Sandham Graves, A. J. Patton, C. D. Stockdill.

Tender of Luney Bros. & Hamilton, contractors, for $224,500 in the construction of a four-story addition to the Public Library was accepted by the library board Monday.

It was the lowest of four bids received.

The board accepted the tender on the understanding that ratepayers approve a $350,000 loan by-law for the work, furnishings and improvements to the existing library building, when they go to the polls next month.

Other tenders were submitted by G. H. Wheaton in the amount of $238,911; Dawson & Hall, $242,090; Commonwealth Construction Co., $246,569.

In addition to the $224,500 required for construction of the new wing, board officials said, $33,000 was needed for elevators, $54,000 for eight tiers of steel bracket book racks, $17,000 for architects' fees, $8,000 for furniture and fixtures, $10,000 for contingencies and $3,500 for debenture costs.

Argument To Develop Over Chamber's City Manager Move

A flare-up was expected at today's City Council meeting over the city manager question.

Ald. Ed. Williams was expected to take the Junior Chamber of Commerce to task for what he terms "interference" in the work of the elected representatives of the people.

Ald. Aubrey Kent, mayoralty candidate whose main election plank is appointment of a city manager, was prepared to answer Ald. Williams.

It is known that Ald. Williams has been collecting "bullets" to fire at the Junior Chamber of Commerce for its action last week in obtaining a petition signed by 5 per cent of the voters demanding that a by-law be presented at the Dec. 8 election on the matter.

Ald. Williams blasted the junior chamber when the petition was drawn up, charging that City Council had the question in hand and that the group of young businessmen was trying to run the city.

He was expected to argue at today's meeting that few junior chamber members had a vote in the city and therefore should "mind their own business."

Ald. Kent considers Ald. Williams' stand as unnecessary and petty and he indicated before the meeting that if the question was introduced he would have something to say in reply.

It was expected, too, that heated discussion would centre around the plan to present to the voters both the city manager by-law and a referendum asking if the electors wanted appointment of a director of administration at the City Hall.

The two plans are similar and some members would present only the manager by-law while others want a vote on both.

If the by-law is approved council must appoint a city manager, but no action is necessary on the administrator referendum.

New Phone Lines Over To Mainland

Number of long-distance circuits between Vancouver and Victoria has been increased by three, with initial facilities in the B.C. Telephone Company's new Point Roberts-Mayne Island submarine cable now in operation.

Another three circuits are expected to be added before the end of this year, making a total of 28 long-distance telephone channels between the two points.

Recent completion of a new stretch of aerial cable across Mayne Island made it possible to use circuits in the $175,000 submarine cable laid last September to augment existing facilities in a similar cable placed in 1930.

Calls between Vancouver and Victoria travel a distance of 73 miles via Point Roberts, Mayne Island and Swartz Bay in an all-cable route.

New T.C.A. Service To Barbados Dec. 1

A new air service to Barbados in the British West Indies will be inaugurated by Trans-Canada Air Lines, Dec. 1, it was announced in Victoria today by R. L. Williams, district traffic and sales manager.

The new service calls for an additional stop on the airlines' weekly flight from Montreal to Bermuda and Trinidad.

The island of Barbados, the "little England" of the Caribbean, will be less than a half-day's traveling from Canadian soil when it becomes a regular port-of-call for the four-engined North Stars which fly over T.C.A. routes to the south.

Barbados, which lies between Bermuda and Trinidad, 230 miles to the north of the latter, will be less than six hours' flying time from Bermuda and 10 from Montreal.

Saanich M.L.A. Speaks At Campbell River

Arthur J. R. Ash, Saanich member of the Legislature, will address the annual meeting of the Campbell River Local Liberal Association to be held in the Legion Hall, Campbell River, at 8 tonight. Officers for 1950 will be elected at the meeting.

Car Driver Still Unconscious

Suffering from skull injuries, James L. Dignan, 22, Verdier Avenue, Saanich, was still unconscious in Jubilee Hospital this morning, more than three days since the car he was driving crashed into a tree on Durrance Road, Saanich, injuring the four occupants. Condition of Dignan and Arthur Jones, Seaman's Institute, passenger in the car, was reported "unchanged" by hospital attendants, indicating both are still in the critical category. Jones also sustained skull injuries but regained consciousness eight hours after the crash.

City Librarian Margaret Clay at a children's hour in the Public Library gave her young audience their first preview of the attractive new quarters planned for the children's department in the proposed new library addition, coming up before Victoria voters on Dec. 8. The children will have their own private Yates Street entrance into a complete new children's department featuring primary room, children's room and 'teen-age room.

Financial Review

Although average daily oil and natural gasoline production in Alberta was down during the week of Nov. 14 as compared to that of Nov. 7 the number of operating oil wells went over the 1,100 mark for the first time.

Actual number of wells was 1,105, 11 more than previous weeks.

The markets today:

NEW YORK—The market embarked on a timid advance today after earlier indecision. Gains ranged to around a point for favored issues. It was far from a one-sided market, though, for a variety of stocks either remained at Monday's closing levels or backed down slightly.

LONDON—British government stocks were fractionally harder with some buying of the long-dated issues. Industrials were irregular but with an uncertain and soft undertone. Textiles moved lower on profit-taking on the recent rise.

MONTREAL—A new issue of Province of Ontario 3 per cent debentures attracted all attention on the bond market here.

TORONTO—Activity slowed to a crawl as prices continued their easier trend for the second successive session on the exchange here. Some recovery tendencies appeared towards the close.

Dividends declared:

B.C. Forest Products will pay 15 cents to stockholders Feb. 1.

National Grocers Ltd., Toronto, will pay 15 cents on common stock and 37½ cents on preferred stock, payable Jan. 2.

High Jinks Omitted As Met. Season Opens

NEW YORK (UP)—Metropolitan Opera first-nighters heeded the pleas of the management Monday night by shunning society high jinks and paying attention to the 65th opening performance. Not a single wealthy dowager showed a bare leg as one did last year.

Although most of the 4,000 richly dressed and bejeweled opera lovers attempted to enter the Met's bar at intermission for a glimpse of shenanigans which had made a side show out of the stage performance for the past decade, they were disappointed. The cut-ups of recent years stayed in their seats to hear Richard Strauss' "Der Rosenkavalier."

Only Mrs. Cornelius Vanderbilt, nearing 80 and confined to a wheelchair, created a little excitement. She threatened to rap a newspaper photographer with her cane when he snapped her picture as she was wheeled into the lobby.

Dominion, Provinces Near Agreement On Highway Plan

OTTAWA (CP)—The federal government and the provinces are nearing agreement on plans for the completion of a "first-class, hard-surfaced" trans-Canada highway, Reconstruction Minister Winters told the Commons Monday.

He made the statement in introducing legislation authorizing the federal government to pay 50 per cent of the cost of completing the 5,000-mile highway. He did not estimate the likely total cost to the Dominion, but some believe it will be between $150,000,000 and $200,000,000.

Some opposition members, while welcoming the legislation, suggested the government pay the full cost of the highway.

George Drew, Progressive Conservative leader, said a Dominion-provincial conference should be called to discuss how the highway will be financed and to choose the route.

Hazen Argue (C.C.F., Assiniboia, Sask.) said his party wanted to see the federal government assume full cost of the highway.

Solon Low, Social Credit leader, supported the suggestion. He said if the federal government did not want to pay all costs it should not ask the provinces to contribute more than 30 or 33 per cent.

Other speakers included A. F. Macdonald (Lib., Edmonton East), John Blackmore (S.C., Lethbridge) and A. L. Smith (P.C., Calgary West).

PIPELINE BILLS

Before reaching the highway legislation, members debated procedure for four hours on a government motion increasing the time allowed for the discussion of bills incorporating two pipeline companies.

The bills, sponsored by private members, would incorporate the Alberta Natural Gas Company and Prairie Transmission Lines Ltd. Under regular rules the bills could be discussed for only one hour on Tuesdays and one hour on Fridays. They have been before the House on four occasions, but failed to advance as some members kept opposing them and carrying on what government spokesmen termed a filibuster.

The motion was adopted 108 to 42.

British Labor Party May Drop Plan To Nationalize Insurance

LONDON (CP) — Britain's Labor Party is understood to be planning big changes in the program on which it will fight next year's general election.

Consensus among political observers is that party tacticians are almost certain to drop plans for state ownership of industrial insurance.

The emphasis in Labor's new election manifesto is expected to be on consolidation of industries already nationalized rather than on bold new adventures during a period of economic difficulty.

Nationalization of industrial insurance, cement, water supplies, all "suitable" minerals and sugar refining was promised last April in a tentative socialist election manifesto entitled "Labor Believes in Britain."

Two other industries — shipbuilding and chemicals — were warned the state would step in if they did not perform up to par.

Since then, devaluation of the pound, from $4.03 to $2.80 in United States funds, and Labor reverses in municipal by-elections are believed to have caused second thoughts.

Compromise proposals on insurance are understood to be under consideration, and a new manifesto, due early in 1950, will probably place stress on ways to reduce retail prices and improve the distribution of food and consumer goods.

A clue to the Socialist stand on insurance was contained Monday in Labor's new "Speakers' Handbook," a guide for prospective party candidates. The handbook reaffirms determination to take over such industries as sugar and cement, but does not mention insurance.

Charges Conspiracy By Government In Flour Combine Case

OTTAWA (CP)—J. M. Macdonnell (P.C.-Toronto-Greenwood) said today in the Commons the government had committed a "conspiracy against the constitution" when it did not file a combines investigation report as required by law.

He was referring to a report on an alleged combine in the flour-milling industry. The report reached the government Dec. 29, 1948, and was not tabled in the Commons until a few weeks ago. The Combines Act requires that such reports be made public 15 days after they are received.

Speaking in renewed debate on a bill amending the Combines Act, Mr. Macdonnell said the government had made no serious attempt to give reasons for the suspension of the rule of law.

"What bothers me is that men of deservedly-high reputations make no excuse for doing what King Charles lost his head for," said Mr. Macdonell.

CHAPTER ONE

THE SIX-THIRTY from Liverpool Street was always crowded. Business girls dashed along at the last moment and threw themselves into it just as it was starting. Men from the city sat in the first-class carriages reading their evening papers, glad that their day was over. Women, up in town for a round of the shops, stowed their parcels away on the racks and were happily contented to be returning to the country.

Patience Mond caught it on Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays. She went up in the morning on the nine o'clock, scurried into the tube to Oxford Circus, and emerged to cross the street and take the third turning on the left, then to disappear into the first house on the right, where the lift took her to the top floor.

Here she entered the Stanton Academy of Dressmaking where, with several other girls of varying ages, she stitched and learned and duly digested all that Madame Girard, and the teachers under her, had to teach her regarding the intricate business of dressmaking.

SHE KNEW THE REASON

Patience was never quite sure whether she really wanted to become a dressmaker. It didn't strike her as a very thrilling profession. But her Aunt Helen and her Aunt Alice, after much discussion, and a visit to London to inspect the academy, had chosen it for her.

And Patience, amazed to find them agreeing that she should embark on any career at all, other than that of a nursery-governess, had jumped gratefully at their suggestion that she should join the academy and go three days a week to London.

She leaned back now in her corner and opened the magazine she'd bought at the bookstall. It was her favorite weekly and she was looking forward to going on with the serial. As the train pulled out of the station she settled down to enjoy herself. And then found that she couldn't. The printed words conveyed nothing to her.

She knew the reason. She wasn't giving them her undivided attention. She was reading them with her eyes, but her mind was telling her he was there again sitting opposite her, his eyes upon her. She'd only to look up and he'd smile and say: "Good evening."

She looked up.

"Hello," he said.

"Hello," she said.

PAUL TAYLOR SIGHED

Hitherto, though, it had been good evening. Once she'd dropped her magazine and he'd picked it up and handed it to her. He'd tried then to draw her into conversation. But she'd not encouraged him. True, she wanted to. He had such a charming way with him. But no nice girl allowed herself to be picked up by a young man in a train. Or anywhere else for that matter. On this point her aunts were always most insistent.

"Enjoying your magazine?"

"Come on. You'll be home in no time." Paul held out his arms to her. "One, two, three—Be a brave little girl. The big bad wolf won't eat you!"

Her head disappeared behind it. Paul Taylor sighed. He wondered why he bothered with her. For the last month he'd been traveling in her carriage. And it took a bit of doing. The darned train was always so crowded. It meant getting to the station on time and watching for her to come along. He looked at her bent head in the funny old-fashioned round felt hat that was just like a schoolgirl's. What was there about her that so intrigued him? The very fact that she was so different from other girls, he supposed. Not a spot of make-up. Just a dusting of powder on her small upturned nose. Hair devoid of a perm though it curled nicely on its own, as he saw when occasionally she took her hat off. But nothing smart about it. No upward sweep or clustering curls.

PATIENCE BLUSHED

Patience turned a page. No, she wasn't going to look up at him again. Yes, she knew he was staring at her. Funny how she could feel his eyes upon her when her head was bent over her reading.

She hoped the hot tell-tale color wasn't creeping up her cheeks. It was such a ridiculous habit she'd got of blushing. How the girls at the academy laughed at her! And some of them congratulated her. "You don't see many girls blushing these days. Listen, Patience, what sort of a home do you come from that you don't seem to know any of the answers?"

She came from a very nice home, although a very strict one. She'd a shrewd suspicion it was almost unique. She wondered sometimes if there could be anywhere in the whole of England two women quite so old-fashioned as the two maiden aunts to whom she was devoted and who'd brought her up since childhood.

Not that she minded. She'd an idea she was possibly a little old-fashioned herself. She supposed it must be a matter of upbringing. She wondered if a day would come when she'd ever change. When she'd be more like the other girls she met at the dressmaking classes. Learn to use make-up. To wear smart clothes. To go out with boy-friends. She sighed involuntarily. It seemed so unlikely.

Her aunts disapproved of make-up. They liked her to be nicely and quietly dressed, they always told her. And as for boy-friends. . . . Plenty of time for them a little later on. One day someone would come along to whom she'd be properly introduced. After all, she was still very young. Twenty? What was that? Why, to them still she was very much of a baby!

FEARED DIRECT SNUB

At Broxbourne four people got out. Patience shifted in her seat. There was more room now. She laid aside her magazine.

"That's better," said Paul. "It's not much fun is it, when it's quite so crowded?"

"No," said Patience.

Paul wished the carriage would empty altogether. Then, hang it all, he'd insist on her talking to him. But there was a parson in the opposite corner and a fussy old lady along the seat from him. He'd no wish to get the snub direct in public. Burnt Mill came next.

"Comic name for a place, isn't it?" he said as the train started again.

"Yes," said Patience.

Paul sighed. Dumb, he thought sadly, and not even beautiful. He'd give it up. It was altogether too much like hard work. There was a snappy little blonde that caught this train every night. Far better look to her to help him while away the time on the journey.

The train ambled on. She'd be getting out at the next station. He'd still got three more to go. So had the snappy blonde for that matter. In fact she, it seemed, lived further down the line than he did. And then there was a jerk. The train moved forward slowly. Jerked again and then stopped. The old lady sat forward and peered out of the window.

"Are we in a station?"

"I don't think so," said Paul.

The parson looked at his watch and said he hoped the delay wouldn't be a long one.

"I expect we'll be off again in a minute," said Paul cheerfully.

ACCIDENT AHEAD

But a quarter-of-an-hour later the train was still stationary. And now heads were peering out of carriages. People were talking amongst themselves. Something had gone wrong. The hold-up might prove a long one. The guard came down the train. There'd been an accident, he was telling the passengers, at a level crossing a short distance further along the line. No, he couldn't tell how long it would be before they'd be able to go on again.

"How far to Oakley?" called Paul, knowing it was her station.

"Barely a mile."

Carriage doors opened here and there. The passengers for Oakley were clearly deciding that they might as well walk on rather than wait in the train indefintely. It was a clear moonlit night. Patience wondered what to do about it. If the delay were really a long one, Aunt Helen and Aunt Alice would begin to worry as to what had happened to her. They were always in a little bit of a state until she got safely in, still—quite absurdly, of course—wondering whether it had been really wise to allow her to go off by herself three days a week to London.

"I'll walk along with you," said Paul.

Patience looked at him.

"But you don't get out at Oakley."

"That's all right. I'll hang on there and pick this train up when it comes along eventually. Or I might hitch-hike home."

Paul opened the carriage door. He'd an idea it was now or never. He got out, jumping down onto the line.

"Come on. You'll be home in no time." He held out his arms to her. "One, two, three— Be a brave little girl. The big bad wolf won't eat you."

Now Said Time For Canada To Map Civil Defence Plan

A man who played a major role in the organization of Victoria's civil defence during World War II said here Monday night that the present was the time to tackle the pros and cons of civil defence "so that when the time comes we will have some type of organization to meet an emergency."

D. J. Proudfoot, retiring president of the Victoria Liberal Association, made this clear at the association's annual meeting in Liberal headquarters. He emphasized he was speaking as the association's president, not as a member of the Legislature. Mr. Proudfoot will take his seat in the Legislature for the first time next year.

He described civil defence as a problem "of great concern to us on this island." He noted Canada had had no civil defence organization at the start of World War II.

Chief warden for Victoria's civil defence organization during the war, Mr. Proudfoot said the international situation in the past year had deteriorated "to such an extent that it would take very little to start a shooting war." He noted all the nations of Europe and the United States had made definite defence plans.

Turning to provincial affairs, Mr. Proudfoot said he thought the hospital insurance premiums should have been fixed at $20 for single and $40 for married persons. Then, he said, hospital insurance could be put on a solid basis and expanded to include diagnostic clinics.

1950 CONSTRUCTION YEAR

Education Minister W. T. Straith predicted that 1950 would be a year of construction—of roads, railroads, houses and schools. He said that the government would push ahead with the construction of the John Hart Highway and the Quesnel-Prince George extension of the P.G.E. These two projects would help open up the "new empire" of the Peace River district, he said.

Mr. Straith made it clear that he approved of the proposed Dominion - provincial - municipal partnership in housing and said that B.C.'s population this year had increased by 30,000 to 40,000 so that this province as much as any other needed a housing program.

School building, Mr. Straith predicted, would continue at a high rate during 1950. The school population had increased by 10,000 to 162,000 in the past year, he said, and this required 400 new classrooms or the equivalent of 10 schools of the size of Victoria High School.

PLEASED BALLOTS NEEDED

Mrs. Nancy Hodges, also a member for Victoria of Legislature, expressed pleasure that balloting had been necessary to name some of the officers of the association and that 150 members had attended the meeting. She said these were good signs to a party on the up and up and said she felt sure that the Progressive Conservatives would not have had so many present.

She pleaded with the public to have patience for the hospital insurance program, saying that this tremendous experiment had to be conducted by trial and error and to date there had been very few errors.

"I think it is doing a tremendous job," she said, adding that she hoped to see it expanded to provide some diagnostic services and so that something could be done for those with incomes not more than old-age pensioners. She said extension of the scheme would be impossible until it had been placed on an actuarily sound basis.

Mrs. Hodges expressed confidence something would be done at the forthcoming session of the Legislature to provide housing projects. She disagreed with Mr. Proudfoot, however, who had advocated low-cost homes to be purchased over a long period of time rather than low-rental homes. Mrs. Hodges said she believed home ownership was better than rental but it was not always practicable.

She said she had not visited a city in Canada which did not have a housing problem, and she believed housing was the greatest need of Canada today.

Interdependence Of Men Linked With Search For Peace

The inter-weaving of lives of people on this globe were linked to man's search of peace and happiness Monday night in a talk at First United Church by Dr. Howard Thurman, negro minister of the Church of All Peoples, San Francisco.

The speaker said no man can find peace and happiness independently because of the interdependence on the other fellow in our civilization.

He told an audience estimated at more than 700 that men are trying to find a faith that can be honestly and intelligently held, and that in finding this design, they find their lives are inescapably involved with the lives of many others.

Dr. Thurman, former professor of systematic theology at Howard University, Washington, D.C., titled his address "Quest for Fulfilment."

Ogden Point Grain Elevator Receives First Carloads Corn

The first of 450 railway box-cars of corn to be stored by the Ker Gifford and Co. grain firm of Portland at the Ogden Point elevator arrived in Victoria Monday.

Twenty-four carloads were placed in the elevator which the city has leased to the U.S. company for a year at $1,000 a month. The lease was from Aug. 1 and it contains option for renewal.

Corn from the midwestern states will arrive for the next few weeks at the rate of approximately 20 carloads a day.

It is being stored in the elevator under customs bond for shipment to world markets. It is not known when the first shipments will be made.

The grain is being brought to Victoria by C.N.R. cars which are carried from the mainland by barge.

It is the first time in over four years that the elevator has been in use.

Free From Spying, Stampeders Given Workout In East

OAKVILLE, Ont. (CP)—If there are any Montreal spies around the Calgary Stampeders' training camp, they're probably hiding in gopher holes. Nary a one was seen as the Canadian champions went through a stiff 90-minute morning scrimmage session.

It was the first tough workout for the club since arrival here Sunday in preparation for Saturday's Grey Cup date in Toronto with the Montreal Alouettes. Players put on heavy gear and, with coach Les Lear cracking the whip, tried line and off-tackle smashes and a few short forwards tossed by quarter Keith Spaith.

In temperatures around the 28-above mark and on ground frozen almost solid, the defending champions had the Appleby College field to themselves. The only onlookers were college teachers and a couple of newspaper men.

Strode gave Lear a hand with the play.

The Stampeders use a T-formation with Spaith in the key quarter spot. Blond Harry Hood is his understudy.

This morning's practice featured some nifty off-tackle drives by Kwong and terrific defensive play by big Doug Turner who went to Calgary from Toronto late in the season. Turner, who alternates at snap with Mel Wilson, is practising law in the west.

A two-hour drill is scheduled this afternoon.

Delay Recognizing Red China Regime

OTTAWA (BUP)—Canada will almost certainly not recognize the Communist regime in China before the end of the this year, Prime Minister Louis St. Laurent said today.

He told the Commons de facto recognition would only be given when "certain conditions appear to exist." At present, sufficient information was not available about the situation in China, and it was unlikely the necessary facts would be known before the present session of Parliament ended, he said.

The Prime Minister made the statement in reply to a question from Opposition Leader George Drew, who asked that the House be allowed to debate recognition of Communist China before the government made any decision.

Near Riot By Fans As Football Final Tickets Sold Out

TORONTO (CP)—Police were called today when about 80 fans, seeking tickets for next Saturday's Dominion football final here, were told by a downtown agency there were no tickets for sale.

Some of the crowd threatened to kick down the agency's door and shouted the office was "holding out."

Ticket agencies said there are no tickets to the Montreal-Calgary game for public sale. Downtown agencies said they received less than their usual quota. One of the largest (Moody's), reported it got only 25 per cent of last year's quota.

One agent said: "A couple of hundred thousand want tickets for a stadium that seats about 20,000."

One English Game Cause Of Banning Winnipeg Pucksters

TORONTO (CP)—Bob Kaye and Gord Miller, two former Winnipeg hockey players who had a brief whirl in the English Hockey League and then quit for undisclosed reasons, stand suspended in organized hockey in Canada, G. S. Dudley, secretary-manager of the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association, said today.

Dudley, reached by telephone at his Midland, Ont., home, said the brief whirl consisted of one game.

The players had lined up with Harringay Racers and Dudley said he had cleared them for the English League only two or three weeks ago.

"The team flew them to England and they received three weeks' pay," Dudley added. "Then, after a single game, they decided to try their luck elsewhere. I understand they have already sailed for Canada."

Dudley said the suspensions would stand until "the boys themselves straighten out their cases" with the E.H.L.

Drug Conspiracy Trial In Montreal

MONTREAL (CP)—Three men charged with plotting with Rev. J. Arthur Taillefer to sell morphine and heroin appeared briefly in court today and had their trials set for Jan. 23.

The three, Jean Claude Lapres, Rosario Delisle and Michel Sisco, pleaded innocent. All face two charges of conspiracy and, in addition, Sisco faces three charges of selling narcotics illegally.

Father Taillefer, a Montreal Roman Catholic priest, pleaded guilty last month and is serving a two-year sentence.

Bail was renewed for Lapres and Delisle, but Sisco, who has been unable to raise bail, was returned to the cells.

New Remand Given In Calgary Murder

CALGARY (CP)—William Lee Wallace, charged with the murder of Yvonne Levesque, 24, in an East Calgary auto cabin Aug. 11 was remanded for an additional eight days when he appeared in police court today.

It was the second such remand requested by the Crown since Wallace was returned here from Detroit Nov. 13 after Detroit police said he had confessed to killing the young woman during an attempted robbery.

Sure, and these are the three prettiest Irish lasses in New York, according to the judges in a department store's "Miss Ireland" contest. And bad cess to any spalpeen who doubts it. Pearson Leads Fight To Stop U.N. Slander

FLUSHING, N.Y. (BUP)—External Affairs Minister Lester B. Pearson of Canada admonished Ukrainian Foreign Minister Dmitri Z. Manuilsky today to stop slandering members of the United Nations.

Pearson slapped the Ukrainian delegate verbally during heated debate in the Political Committee of the U.N., as a campaign got under way to "clean up" United Nations debates.

Manuilsky was called to order for referring to the "Tito fascist clique" of Yugoslavia and the "Kuomintang" government of China.

President Carlos P. Romulo laid down the rule to the General Assembly last week when he told the full session of delegates from 59 nations:

"I warn delegates that hereafter I will not allow such statements, and if they are made, I will order them expunged from the record.

In the main Political Committee debate on opposing peace proposals offered by Russia and the western powers at Lake Success today, Manuilsky accused the democracies of practicing "mean and low manoeuvres such as are used in a dishonest card game."

He criticized "the Tito fascist clique" which he said was "hand in glove with the governments of Chile and the China Kuomintang."

Chilean delegate Hernan Santa Cruz and Yugoslav delegate Ales Bebler protested immediately.

As the Political Committee neared a vote on the opposing eastern and western "peace plans," the full General Assembly, meeting at Flushing, wrangled over the applications of 14 countries seeking U.N. membership.

Nine of these have been vetoed by Russia, which, in turn, has proposed admission for 13 of them on a blanket ballot which would bring into the organization five eastern European countries objected to by the west.

C.P.R. Line Patrols Discover Dynamite

NELSON (BUP) — Special track patrols were on duty along C.P.R. lines around Nelson today following Monday night's discovery of 80 pounds of pulp dynamite believed planted by a group of radical Doukhobors.

The dynamite was crammed into a culvert under the track 15 miles outside Nelson. B.C. Police believed the dynamite was planted by the Sons of Freedom Doukhobors who were suspected to blowing up 132 feet of C.P.R. trackage last Friday at Castlegar, near Nelson.

Problem Likely To Be On Agenda For Defence Ministers

LONDON (UP)—Authoritative sources in London said today that western military strategists are studying the long-range possibility of using a future German Army to help push the Atlantic Pact frontier from the Rhine River to the Elbe, only 50 miles west of Berlin.

The question of whether the defence of Western Europe should be based on the Rhine or the Elbe is the major military problem confronting the Atlantic Pact generals.

It probably will be high on the agenda when they and their defence ministers meet in Paris Nov. 29 and Dec. 1. The military men take this view:

1. If the Rhine is to be the first line of defence, then a German Army will not be necessary.

2. If the Elbe is to be the first line of defence, then a German Army is necessary. A friendly people, and an ally, must be behind the western armies.

All realize that the question of a German Army is a hot potato in a Western Europe liberated from German arms only five years ago. But there are reports that informal efforts are being made to get the views of the countries involved.

Brantford Teacher Says Book On Sale 'Literary Sewage'

BRANTFORD, Ont. (CP)—A schoolteacher today entered a court case centring on whether a book purporting to deal with juvenile delinquency in a section of Brooklyn, N.Y., is obscene.

Called to testify for the crown, W. T. Turner of the Brantford Collegiate Institute and Vocational School termed the book—The Amboy Dukes—"literary sewage."

Charged with "exposing for sale an obscene book," John R. Goodwin pleaded innocent. He formerly managed the local branch of the American News Company, which also is on trial on a similar charge.

The company has its headquarters in New York.

The case is continuing.

Traffic Stalled In Eastern U.S.

NEW YORK (AP)—Wintry winds and snow stalled highway traffic today in many spots between the Rockies and the east coast. In Syracuse, N.Y., cars crawled along icy streets bumper to bumper. The mercury stood at 17, the coldest Nov. 22 there since 1932. Even in southwest Virginia, highway authorities hauled out the snowplows.

Trapped In House, Five Children Die As Farm Home Burns

ROCK FALLS, Wisconsin (BUP) — Five children were burned to death today when a flash fire destroyed the John Berg farm home near Rock Falls, Wisconsin.

The children were trapped in the eight-room house while Mr. and Mrs. Berg were milking cows in a barn nearby.

The victims were identified by police as Maxine, about 18, Donna Mae, about 10, David 7, and Jackie, about 7, children of the Bergs, and Joan Stai, 8, a granddaughter.

One boy leaped through a window and was rushed to Luther Hospital in Eau Claire, Wisconsin.

Contempt Citation Ordered Against Bridges' Lawyer

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—The judge and defence attorneys tangled today in a free-for-all battle of bitter words and denunciations in the Harry Bridges perjury trial.

With the jury absent, Federal Judge George B. Harris excoriated Vincent Hallinan, Bridges' attorney.

It ended with Judge Harris stating: "I request . . . that the certificate and order of contempt (against Hallinan) . . . be prepared as soon as possible."

Harris declared that as a consequence of Hallinan's "inflammatory course of conduct" and his persistent disregard of the court's rules and directions, he was reviewing the trial record, in court, "as the basis for an order and certificate of contempt."

After Harris had spoken for almost two hours, sometimes pounding his desk for emphasis, Hallinan jumped to his feet.

He charged that Judge Harris held for him "a personal hatred and dislike." He demanded that Harris disqualify himself. The judge refused to do so.

Sues For $350,000

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Ann Sheridan has filed a $350,000 breach of contract suit against RKO Radio Pictures Inc.

The actress' suit, filed Monday, claims she was contracted to play the feminine lead in the film "Carriage Entrance," but that the studio gave the role to Ava Gardner.

Miss Sheridan said the studio terminated her contract Aug. 17. She asks $150,000 for what she would have received for 16 weeks' work and $200,000 she estimates she would have received as 10 per cent of the film's net profits.
